ENGLISH SYLLABUSES FOR SECONDARY SCHOOLS OF BENGAL.

SYLLABUS A.

Class III.

Speech Training, Writing and Reading.—Systematic training in the sounds of spoken English in connection with the pronunciation of easy words. In the later part of the course, the class should be able to carry on very simple conversation about familiar objects and actions.

The writing of English letters; written and printed small letters first, and then written and printed capital letters. As soon as the letters are known, words and sentences may be practised. Transcription from the black-board and from the reader are essential.

Reading should not be begun until some facility in speech and a fairly large vocabulary of common words have been acquired. A primer should be introduced during the second half of the year. The pupils will then have done a certain amount of reading from the black-board, and if the sentences in the primer are about equal in point of difficulty to those used in the conversational lessons, the transition should be easy.

There should be a considerable amount of reading aloud both by the teacher and by the pupils. Special attention should be paid to pronunciation.

The pupils may be asked to form easy sentences containing words from the primer, and should answer in English questions based on the matter of the primer.

Grammar.—The teaching should be incidental and should include:—Names connected with objects; ways of naming one thing and more than one thing; this and that, these and those, here and there, etc.; words showing action; present time, past time, future time; the numbers 1-20.

Class IV.

Reading.—On similar lines to Class III. Much individual reading aloud is desirable in order to correct mis-pronunciation of words and to secure reasonable fluency. The essential quality to be secured here is not expressiveness but clear utterance.

Pupils should give briefly and in their own words the substance of passages which they have read.

There should be one reader for detailed study. One or more readers should be provided for more rapid reading. The teacher should also read aloud stories or extracts.

Easy sentences from the primer should be rendered into the vernacular. A pupil should not be asked to translate any sentence of which he has not thoroughly grasped the purport.

Poetry.—A number of very simple poems should be read aloud by the teacher and the pupils during the year.

Speech Training and Composition.—Easy conversations about familiar objects and actions, and topics of the reading lessons; stories told by the teacher and retold by the class; descriptions of pictures shown to the class. New words from the readers to be used in simple sentences. The pupils should be encouraged to ask questions so as to show in what direction their vocabulary needs supplementing.

Transcription from the black-board and from readers. Spelling of words in the readers.

Dictation of words and sentences previously learnt in the readers. The average length of a piece should be six lines.

Easy written composition based on the exercises. The subjects should be concrete and simple, e.g., accounts of common sights and experiences, descriptions of pictures, invention and reproduction of stories.

The pupils should possess a fairly complete stock of ideas about a subject before beginning to compose.

Commas and full stops should be required.

Grammar.—Some Grammar has already been taught in connection with the mother tongue; in the English lessons, it should be reviewed.

When the pupils have acquired a reasonable command of ordinary language, they may be told the names of the different parts of speech and their functions in the sentence. They need this knowledge in order to express their own meaning correctly and to ascertain with accuracy the meaning of passages.

Some formal grammar is necessary, and should include:—Division of a sentence into two parts; subject and predicate. Nouns, verbs, pronouns, adjectives and adverbs (without sub-classification); and their uses in simple sentences. Simple forms of sentences. The joining together of simple sentences. The full stop and the comma.

Oral and written work on the above.

Class V.

Reading.—Individual reading aloud from a reader. Special attention should be given to correct pronunciation.

The pupils should use the words of the reader in forming simple sentences, and should be able to answer in English questions based on the matter of the reader. The answers may now be in the form of connected and continuous narrative.

Though the initial difficulties of mechanical reading should by now have been overcome, the teacher will still constantly read aloud to assist the class in improving their standard of reading.

There should be one reader for detailed study; and one or more supplementary readers should be provided. The teacher should also read aloud short stories or extracts.

Sentences from the readers, the purport of which has been thoroughly grasped, should be rendered into the vernacular.

Poetry.—The treatment in Class IV should be continued. The pupils should learn a minimum of forty lines of poetry by heart.

(The main story or leading idea of each poem should be understood by the pupils; it is not necessary for them to understand every word or phrase.)

Speech Training and Composition.—The method used in Class IV should be developed. Sufficient subject matter should be available from within the range of the pupils' experience, e.g., scenes which they have seen, descriptions of persons whom they know or of whom they have read, topics from their reading lessons. In giving accounts of what they have seen, heard or learnt, the pupils should speak for a longer time than in the former class. The teacher should now do less talking and allow the pupils to do more.

Spelling of words in the readers and in connection with mistakes in the composition.

Eight lines of dictation from the readers at a time. Transcription from the black-board and from the readers.

Composition as in Class IV. Graduated stories read aloud by the teacher. Original composition should be introduced, e.g., six sentences on the subject of an oral lesson. Words and phrases from the readers should be used in simple sentences.

Grammar.—The subject should be taught in connection with the reading lessons, and with oral and written composition ; and should be based on the vernacular grammar wherever possible. It should include :—Revision of previous grammar in connection with more difficult sentences. Number and gender of nouns and pronouns. Adverbs, prepositions and conjunctions (without sub-classifications). Interjections. The definite and the indefinite articles. The conjugation of the three simple tenses. The verb "to have" and the verb "to be".

Oral and written answers on the above.

Class VI.

Reading.—Development of previous work. To read with correct pronunciation from readers ; to use the words of the readers in simple sentences ; and to answer in English questions based on the matter of the reader.

Reading aloud should be continued, but some silent reading should be introduced. The pupils should now have mastered mechanical difficulties, and be able to recognise and pronounce words rightly. They should now sometimes read as grown up people read, that is, silently. The teacher should exercise general supervision over this reading.

In addition to the reader for detailed study, one or more supplementary readers should be provided.

Passages from the readers and simple stories, the purport of which the pupils have fully grasped, should be rendered into the vernacular. Translation of simple sentences from the mother tongue into English should now be begun.

Poetry.—The treatment in Class V should be continued. A minimum of sixty lines should be learnt by heart.

The poems learnt by heart in the lower classes may sometimes be asked for.

Speech Training and Composition.—As before, plenty of conversation by the members of the class. More difficult sentences should now be used. Fuller connected accounts of what the pupils have seen, heard or learnt should be required. These accounts should more often be substituted for the method of question and answer.

The written composition should include the reproduction of simple stories, and practice in the use of easy idiomatic sentences. The exercises should be on subjects within the range of the experience of the class. About half of the composition should be based on the matter of the reading lessons. Instruction should also be given in elementary points of arrangement, construction and punctuation.

Letters of a simple kind ; home topics should be largely dealt with.

Spelling of words in the readers and of composition mistakes.

Dictation of passages from the readers—about ten lines on each occasion.

Grammar.—The use of words is understood by the recognition of their relation to other words, and not by the investigation of themselves. Some formal grammar is necessary, but the function of the parts of speech should receive most attention. The work should include :—Revision of previous work in grammar. Classification of nouns, pronouns, adjectives and adverbs. Cases of nouns and pronouns. The uses of relative, interrogative and demonstrative pronouns. Comparatives and superlatives. The nominative case after the verb. Participles and gerunds. Voices. The conjugation of the remaining tenses. Simple ideas of moods. Auxiliary verbs, e.g., may, might, shall, will, should, would, must, can, used. The direct and the indirect objects. Analysis of simple sentences.

Exercises on the above chiefly in connection with errors found in the composition exercises.

Class VII.

Reading.—Reading aloud should be continued, but it should be less frequent. Silent reading, under the supervision of the teacher, should take its place. In addition to the reader for detailed study, one or more easy supplementary readers should be provided. Sentences should be formed and questions answered in English based on the vocabulary of the readers. The intelligent and expeditious use of a good dictionary should also be taught. More difficult passages from the readers and from compositions should be rendered into English. Translation from the mother tongue into English of easy passages should be prepared orally and then written.

Poetry.—On similar lines to Class VI. The teacher should still read aloud the longer poems. A minimum of eighty lines of poetry may be committed to memory in this class.

(The poems learnt by heart in the lower classes should sometimes be asked for.)

Spoken Language and Composition.—Development of previous work. Free conversation on the substance of the readers should be added. The practice of continuous oral narration should still be employed.

In the composition lessons, a beginning should be made of describing familiar scenes and objects; selections of these should be read out and criticised by the class. Subjects of topical interest, or obtainable from observation, or from books within the pupils' reach should be introduced. More difficult idiomatic sentences based on the matter of the readers should be required.

Short easy letters within the child's experience; directions borrowing and returning books or other articles necessitating replies, e.g., invitations, refusals or acceptances; comparison of schools, towns, recreations.

Spelling of words in the readers and from composition errors. Dictation of passages of the standard of the prescribed readers.

Grammar.—General knowledge of the various parts of speech. Simple rules of syntax including the enlargement of subject and object; the extension of the predicate; clause analysis; compound and complex sentences; nouns, adjectival and adverbial clauses; and elementary instruction in direct and indirect speech.

Class VIII.

Reading.—As above, with more difficult readers. Reading aloud should be continued, but to a lesser extent than formerly. The teacher should occasionally read aloud passages of special literary merit.

Attention should now be paid to facility in silent reading; and for this purpose, supplementary readers should be used as unseen passages. One reader for detailed study should be selected, and at least one or more easy story books for silent reading should be provided. The aim should be to give children a liking for good books and the power of reading them intelligently and quickly.

Writing in the vernacular the substance of a lengthy passage of English read or heard. Translation of easy passages from the mother tongue into English from the vernacular reader prescribed for Class II.

Poetry.—On similar lines to the preceding classes. A general knowledge of a fair number of standard narrative poems should be expected. Poetry should be read aloud by both teacher and pupils. A minimum of one hundred lines of poetry should be committed to memory.

Spoken Language and Composition.—In addition to the continuation of the method used in Class VII, free conversation may now be given a large place in the work. The conversations on the subject matter of the readers should be of a more detailed character.

There should be brief reproduction of stories occurring in the readers. Original composition on interesting concrete subjects should be discussed, outlined on the black-board, and subsequently written. Description should now include description of games. Pupils should be set to get their own information unaided—to use books or works of reference.

The usual business and formal letters; the answering of enquiries and advertisements, and telegrams, should be taught.

Grammar should include the following:—Names and functions of the parts of speech. Familiarity with elementary terms as subject object, singular, plural, active, passive, auxiliary. Idiomatic use of common words and phrases. Words in common use with different functions. Correct use of prepositions.

Relation of phrases and sentences. Turning statements into questions and questions into statements. Similar action with commands.

Punctuation and paragraphing.

Special differences between the English and the Vernacular grammar (e.g., time values of the tenses).

Correction of grammatical errors.

Classes IX and X.

Head Masters should draw up their own Syllabuses for Classes IX and X guided by the Syllabus for the Matriculation Examinations of the Calcutta University which shows what is required at the end of the High School course.

The following should be kept in mind when drawing up the Syllabuses :—

(1) Some reading aloud, but much silent reading under the supervision of the teacher. Both prose and poetry should be included.

(2) Much practice in simple conversation in order to speak English with correct pronunciation and with some degree of facility, and to understand it when spoken.

(3) The writing of composition and essays on subjects within the powers of the pupils. The language should be simple and not "lofty;" grammatical correctness and facility should receive attention. Headings should sometimes be given on the black-board, but pupils should be encouraged to collect their own information from books or from works of reference.

(4) Letters should be written in correct and idiomatic English of a simple character. They should deal chiefly with the practical affairs of life.

(5) Preference should be given to a training in the English language rather than in English literature—as a preparation for the future professional or commercial duties of the pupils.

(6) Translation of both kinds should be practised as a preparation for future professional or commercial duties. Special attention should be given to simple idiomatic English.

(7) Some direct instruction should still be given in correct spelling.

(8) Little attention should be given to complex grammatical rules. An accurate knowledge of English will be produced rather by careful practice in reading, writing, and speaking English than by mere knowledge of grammatical theory.

SYLLABUS B.

This Syllabus is alternative to Syllabus A : either Syllabus may be used according to the preference of the Head Master, and according to his teaching facilities.

The general principles governing the construction of Syllabus B are :—

(1) That it is important that a Bengali boy should be enabled to read English with ease and enjoyment at as early a period of his school career as possible.*

(2) That the child's progress in reading should always be somewhat ahead of his progress in speaking and writing, in order that he may become accustomed to the meaning and correct use of new words and phrases in his reading, before he makes use of them in speaking and writing.

(3) That progress in reading tends to be more rapid than progress in speaking and writing. (The course in reading is, therefore, kept separate from the course in speaking and writing so that the child may not be retarded in the former, nor hurried in the latter.)

Allocation of Periods.—The periods available for English should be so allocated between the course in reading and the course in speech and writing that the progress of the children in reading should always be in advance of their progress in speech and writing.

Grammar.—The Grammar Syllabus is the same as in Syllabus A. (Teachers are recommended not to devote more time to grammar than is justified by the resulting gain in accuracy of speech and writing.)

* See "Bilingualism—with special reference to Bengal" (Government of India Occasional Reports, No. 18).

Letter-writing.—In written work the pupils should be taught to aim at writing a little correctly rather than a great deal incorrectly. Every mistake should be carefully noted by the individual pupil in order that it may never be repeated. Every pupil should possess a dictionary and should be allowed to use it at all times. (There should therefore be no excuse for spelling errors.) The teacher's aim should be to prevent errors, and pupils should be encouraged to ask, whenever they are in doubt as to the correctness of an expression, before committing it to writing.

SYLLABUS IN BENGALI FOR SECONDARY SCHOOLS OF BENGAL.

Class III.

Reading.—A fairly large vocabulary and some facility in reading have already been acquired in the primary stage. In this class, much individual reading aloud, correction of mispronunciation of words and insistence on clear utterance are required. Meanings of difficult words and expressions should be given, and individual readers should be questioned about the portions read. There should be pattern reading by the teacher ; and at the end of each lesson, members of the class should give a summary in their own words of what they have read.

One or more supplementary readers should be selected for rapid silent reading. The teacher should occasionally test this reading by means of a few questions.

Poetry.—A number of poems should be selected and read aloud by teacher and pupils. The meaning of every word need not be explained, but the leading ideas of each poem should be understood. A minimum of 40 lines of poetry should be learnt by heart.

Speech Training and Composition.—Simple conversations about familiar objects and actions, and topics of the reading lessons ; stories told by the teacher, and retold by the class ; and verbal descriptions of pictures shown to the class. New words from the readers should be used in simple sentences. The pupils should be encouraged to ask questions so as to show in what way their vocabulary needs supplementing.

Transcription from the black-board and from the readers. Spelling of words in the readers.

Dictation of words and sentences previously learnt in the readers. The average length of a piece of dictation should be six lines.

Easy written composition on concrete and simple subjects, e.g., accounts of common sights and experiences, descriptions of pictures, and reproduction of stories. The pupils should possess a fairly complete stock of ideas about a subject before beginning to write.

Great stress should be placed on simplicity of language.

Commas and full stops should be required.

Pupils should give briefly and in their own words the substance of the passages which they have read.

There should be at least one reader for detailed study and reading aloud. At least two others should be provided for rapid and silent reading under the teacher's supervision. The teacher should also read aloud stories and interesting extracts to the class.

Oral summaries of passages read aloud should now be of a more connected and continuous character.

The teacher should still frequently read aloud to the class in order to assist the members in improving their standard of reading.

There should be at least one reader for detailed study and reading aloud ; and at least two others for more rapid and silent reading under the supervision of the teacher. The silent reading should be tested both orally and by means of written exercises.

Poetry.—The treatment in Class IV should be continued with more difficult poems. The central idea of each poem should be understood by the class. At least 80 lines of poetry should be learnt by heart.

Composition.—The possession by the pupils of a good stock of ideas about a subject before they begin to write is of great importance. It is well for the pupils to collect their ideas and state them orally before beginning to write. The teacher should now do less talking, and allow the pupils to do more.

The written work should include summaries of lessons, simple narrative and descriptive compositions, and construction of sentences based on words and expressions from the readers.

Each composition should consist of several paragraphs, and each paragraph should have its own central idea. Great stress should be placed on simplicity of language.

Silent reading under the teacher's supervision and testing of the knowledge thus acquired should be continued.

There should be at least one reader for detailed study and reading aloud ; and at least three others for silent reading.

Poetry.—On similar lines to Class V. At least 100 lines of poetry should be learnt by heart.

Composition.—The pupils should collect their ideas about a subject beforehand, and state them orally before beginning to write. Fuller connected accounts of what the pupils have seen, heard or learnt should now be required.

The written composition should include descriptions, the invention and reproduction of simple stories, and practice in the use of easy idiomatic sentences. Exercise may also be given in the expansion of ideas contained in proverbs, and in the expansion of the same idea in different ways.

Letter-writing of a simple kind should be taught ; home topics should be largely dealt with.

Instruction should be given in elementary points of arrangement and punctuation.

Great stress should be placed on simplicity of language.

Spelling of words in the readers and of the corrected forms of composition mistakes should be continued. Dictation of passages already prepared from the readers should be about 12 lines in length.

Grammar.—Revision of Sandhi and Samas. Rules of ণত্ব and ষত্ব। Formation of nouns from adjectives, and of adjectives from nouns. Cases of nouns and pronouns in greater detail. There should be at least one reader for detailed study and reading aloud, and at least four others for silent reading. The silent reading should be systematically tested.

Each pupil should now possess a dictionary, and should use it constantly for the explanation of difficult words and phrases.

Poetry.—On similar lines to the preceding classes. A general knowledge of a fair number of standard narrative poems should be expected. Poems should be read aloud by both teacher and individual pupils. A minimum of 120 lines of poetry should be learnt by heart.

The reduction of involved sentences into two or more easy ones ; the expansion of ideal ; and the construction of new sentences using words and expressions found in the readers may be dealt with. More difficult idiomatic sentences should be required.

Short easy letters about matters within the pupils' experience should be written.

Great stress should be laid on simplicity of language and on the proper arrangement of the composition.

Spelling of words from the readers and of the corrected forms of composition errors, and dictation of passages of about 12 lines should be continued.

Class VIII.

Reading.—As in Class VII, but with more difficult readers. Reading aloud should still be continued, but to a less extent than in Class VII. The teacher should occasionally read aloud passages of special literary merit.

The time allowed for silent reading will be increased, but it will be carefully supervised and tested by the teacher. The aims should be to give pupils a liking for good books and the power of reading them intelligently and quickly.

The regular use of the dictionary should be encouraged. The importance of the clear understanding of the main ideas of a lesson in comparison with the explanation of difficult words should be borne in mind.

There should be one reader for detailed study and reading aloud ; and at least four others for silent reading.

Poetry.—As in Class VII, with more difficult poems. Both teacher and pupils should still read poems aloud. A minimum of 120 lines of poetry should be learnt by heart during the year.

Grammar.—Derivative adjectives in common use and sentences containing them. কৃৎ and তদ্ধিত। Conversion of sentences from one form to another, e.g., from simple to complex, from compound to complex, etc. Expression of ideas in a sentence in different ways. Use of the same word as different parts of speech. Common errors in speech. Differences between Bengali and English grammar. Accent, pauses, metre and grammatical peculiarities in connection with Bengali poetry. Simple figures of speech.

Translation.—Paragraphs from the English text-books should be rendered into idiomatic Bengali ; simple Bengali sentences should be insisted upon ; regular and systematic exercises should be given.

Classes IX and X.

Head Masters should draw up their own Syllabuses for Classes IX and X guided by the Syllabus for the Matriculation Examination of the Calcutta University.

The following should be kept in mind when drawing up the Syllabuses :—

(1) Reading aloud of standard pieces of prose and poetry by both teacher and pupils should be continued.

(2) Books for silent reading should be carefully chosen ; the pupils are thus guided towards a taste for real literature.

(3) In silent reading, the pupils should acquire skill in the rapid extraction of meaning from the printed page.

(4) The writing of composition and essays should be on subjects within the powers of the pupils. The language should be of a simple character and grammatically correct. Headings should sometimes be given on the blackboard, but pupils should be encouraged to collect their own information from books or from works of reference.

(5) Little attention should be given to complex grammatical rules. An accurate knowledge of Bengali will be gained more easily by careful practice in reading, writing and speaking Bengali than by mere knowledge of grammatical theory.

(6) Translation of both kinds should be practised as a preparation for future professional or commercial duties.

THEORETICAL.

Angles at a point.

If a straight line stands on another straight line, the sum of the two angles so formed is equal to two right angles ; and the converse.
If two straight lines intersect, the vertically opposite angles are equal.

Parallel straight lines.

When a straight line cuts two other straight lines if —

(i) a pair of alternate angles are equal, or

(ii) a pair of corresponding angles are equal, or

(iii) a pair of interior angles on the same side of the cutting lines are together equal to two right angles, then the straight lines are parallel ; and the converse.

Straight lines which are parallel to the same straight line are parallel to one another.

Triangles and rectilineal figures.

The sum of the angles of a triangle is equal to two right angles.
If the sides of a convex polygon are produced in order, the sum of the angles so formed is equal to four right angles.
If two triangles have two sides of the one equal to two sides of the other, each to each, and also the angles contained by these sides equal, the triangles are congruent.
If two triangles have two angles of the one equal to two angles of the other, each to each, and also one side of the one equal to the corresponding side of the other, the triangles are congruent.
If two sides of a triangle are equal, the angles opposite to these sides are equal ; and the converse.
If two triangles have the three sides of the one equal to the three sides of the other, each to each, the triangles are congruent.
If two right-angled triangles have their hypotenuses equal and one side of the one equal to one side of the other, the triangles are congruent.
If two sides of a triangle are equal, the greater side has the greater angle opposite to it ; and the converse.
Of all the straight lines that can be drawn to a given straight line from a given point outside it, the perpendicular is the shortest.
The opposite sides and angles of a parallelogram are equal ; each diagonal bisects the parallelogram and the diagonals bisect one another.
If there are three or more parallel straight lines and the intercepts made by them on any straight line that cuts them are equal, then the corresponding intercepts or any other straight line that cuts them are also equal.

Class VIII.

PRACTICAL.

Division of straight lines into a given number of equal parts or into parts in any given proportions.

Construction of a triangle equal in area to a given polygon.

THEORETICAL.

Areas.

Parallelograms on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area.
Triangles on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area.
Equal triangles on the same or equal bases are of the same altitude.
Illustrations and explanations of the geometrical theorems corresponding to the following algebraical identities :—

$k(a + b + c + \ldots) = ka + kb + kc + \ldots$

$(a + b)^2 = a^2 + 2ab + b^2.$

$a^2 - b^2 = (a - b)(a + b).$

The square on one side of a triangle is greater than, equal to, or less than the sum of the squares on the other two sides according as the angle contained by those sides is obtuse, right angle or acute. The difference in the case of inequality is twice the rectangle contained by one of the two sides and the projection on it of the other.

Loci.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two fixed points is the perpendicular bisector of the straight line joining the two fixed points.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two intersecting straight lines consist of the pair of straight lines which bisects the angles between the two given lines.

The Circle.

A straight line drawn from the centre of a circle to bisect a chord which is not the diameter is at right angles to the chord ; conversely, the perpendicular to a chord from the centre bisects the chord.

There is one circle and one only which passes through three given points not in a straight line.

In equal circles (or in the same circle) (i) if two arcs subtend equal angles at the centre they are equal, (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal they subtend equal angles at the centres.

In equal circles (or in the same circle) (i) if two chords are equal they cut off equal arcs ; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal, the chords of the arcs are equal.

Equal chords in the circle are equidistant from the centre ; and the converse.

Class IX.

PRACTICAL.

Construction of tangents to a circle and of common tangents to two circles.

Simple cases of the construction of circles from sufficient data.

Construction of regular figures of 3, 4, 6, or 8 sides in or about a given circle.

THEORETICAL.

The tangents at any point of a circle and the radius through the point are perpendicular to one another.

If two circles touch, the point of the contact lies on the straight line through the centres.

The angle which an arc of a circle subtends at the centre is double that which it subtends at any point on the remaining part of the circumference.

Angles in the same segment of a circle are equal and if the line joining two points subtends equal angles at two other points on the same side of it the four points lie on a circle.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle, and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle.

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary ; and the converse. If a straight line touch a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which the chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segments.

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other.

Class X.

PRACTICAL.

Construction of a fourth proportional to three given straight lines, and a mean proportional to two given straight lines.

Construction of a square equal in area to a given polygon.

THEORETICAL.

Proportion : Similar triangles.

If a straight line is drawn parallel to one side of a triangle, the other two sides are divided proportionally ; and the converse.

If two triangles are equiangular, their corresponding sides are proportional ; and the converse.

If two triangles have one angle of the one equal to one angle of the other and the sides about these equal angles proportional, the triangles are similar.

The internal bisector of an angle of a triangle divides the opposite sides internally in the ratio of the sides containing the angle and likewise the external bisector externally.

The ratio of the areas of similar triangles is equal to the ratio of the squares on corresponding sides.

Classes IX and X.

HISTORY OF INDIA.

Head Masters should draw up their own Syllabuses for Classes IX and X, guided by the Syllabus for the Matriculation Examination of the Calcutta University, which states that the courses in History shall include "a Reader on the History of England and a Reader on Indian History with special reference to Bengal, including a short account of the administration of British India and of the progress of India under British rule."

The following should be borne in mind when drawing up the Syllabuses:—

(1) The aim should be to present a solid amount of definite historical knowledge, developing the sense of time and laying more stress on relationships of cause and effect as the pupil grows older.
(2) The treatment of the subject should be of a continuous nature.
(3) A text-book should be used and every pupil should possess a copy. The teacher will pass lightly over certain parts, emphasise others by more careful treatment, and from his greater knowledge and more certain insight, introduce much explanation and illustrative matter orally.
(4) The text-book need not be read in class; the teacher will in his treatment of the matter keep fairly close to the order and context of the successive paragraphs.
(5) The teacher should set portions of the text to be read at home in advance, with questions set to keep the attention of the boys on what is of real importance. The actual lessons should be devoted to exposition, by a mixture of lecturing and questioning, of what the boys have read.
(6) Recent history should not be taught by reigns. Some teachers make use of connected stories under such heads as "The Growth of the Empire." Others teach through the lives and careers of the men who played a principal part in them, e.g., the growth of the Moghul Empire through the life and work of Akbar.
(7) There should be frequent reference to earlier events that bear upon the year's work as well as illustrations from the institutions and customs of to-day.

4. The pupils might collectively construct all the models comprising a railway station including railway sleepers and rails, signals, platforms, booking and station offices, gates, bridges, locomotives and rolling stock. A small part might be carried out by each pupil on a predetermined scale, and the whole finally pieced together.

The same idea might be applied to a market place, village street, etc.

Class VII.

1. The syllabus for this year should be chiefly concerned with wood strip work and should have a bias towards carpentry so as to be introductory to the carpentry courses of the following three years.

2. Models should, however, be constructed involving a use of all the materials of construction used in the preceding years. Any other suitable and available materials may also be pressed into use such as wood ; thin turned metal sheets which can be cut and manipulated almost as easily as cardboard and joined at the edges by folded seams ; and sheet glass which can be easily cut and used for windows. Portland cement and sand may be used in the walls of model houses, bridges, etc.

3. The following models are suggested :—

Letters of the alphabet with straight limbs only, post and rail wooden fences, wooden gates, various wooden roof trusses of the well-known types, lattice girder bridge, wooden photograph frame, wooden picture frame ; models of buildings such as cowsheds, cookhouse, bungalow ; masonry or brick bridges.

2. The drawing should be confined to plans, side views, sections and isometric projections ; and the drawing course should be so arranged as to develop these in order of difficulty. The pupil should be taught to use only the minimum number of views necessary (e.g., an article may possibly be completely represented by a dimension isometric projection only).

3. The use of the following should be demonstrated :—

Bench, footrule, steel rule, carpenters' pencil or mark knife, bench vice, tenon saw, rip saw, trysquare, benchsquare, trying plane, jack plane, smoothing plane, mallet, firmer chisels, marking gauge, bradawl, carpenter's hammer, screwdriver, gimlet, glass paper, straight edge.

Pupils should not be allowed to sharpen their own tools in this course.

4. The making of definite models or woodwork articles should not be attempted by pupils until they have become familiar with the use of the above tools. They should be given simple wooden test pieces about 12 to 15 inches long, and an inch or two in cross sectional dimensions. These pieces should always be a little longer than the dimensions intended for the finished piece and should be rough sawn only.

5. The execution of the test pieces should involve the following operations :—

Sawing and marking by pencil and square or by gauge ; planing, trying, squaring, smoothing, levelling and grooving ; making such carpentry joints as mortice and tenon.

Class IX.

1. The use of the few remaining carpenters' tools should be learnt, and the test pieces should consist of simple woodwork articles. The pupils should work from dimensioned drawings supplied to them. They should also be required to measure a few woodwork articles, draw their measurements to scale, and make reproductions of them.

2. The chief remaining carpenters' tools are as follows :—

Shooting board, wing compass, spokeshave, wood files and rasps' brace and bits, cramps, gauges, bow saw and rabbit plane' dovetail saw, nail punch, motrice chisels, holdfasts, grindstone, water and oil stones.

3. The test pieces or models should also include the operations of glueing and pinning joints, the use of wire and screw nails, countersinking, panelling and cutting out designs with fret or bow saw, champering, beading and grooving.

4. The pupils should be shown how to grind and sharpen their tools, and keep them in order.

5. The following models or articles are suggested as test pieces :—

Book-shelf, corner bracket, footstool, boxes of various kinds, camp stool, deck chair, small tables of various kinds, flower-pot stand, wooden tray, hanging shelves, wall plaques, drawing board, teasquare, stationery case, curtain brackets and rods, water-pot stand.

NOTICES UNDER THE BENGAL ELECTORAL RULES.

To Babu Charu Chandra Sinha, M.A., B.L., Ramkrishnapore Lane, Howrah.

Please take notice that an election petition has been filed by Babu Khagendra Nath Ganguli against your election in the Bengal Legislative Council for setting aside the order of Rai Sahib Bhupendra Nath Mukherji, Returning Officer for the Howrah non-Muhammadan Constituency, dated the 8th November 1926, and that 4th January 1927 has been fixed for the return of the notice.

P. C. DE, President.

Given under my hand this 23rd day of December 1926.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE VICTOR ALEXANDER GEORGE ROBERT BULWER-LYTTON, EARL OF LYTTON, P.C., G.C.I.E., GOVERNOR OF BENGAL.

In the matter of an application under Rule 32, Part VII, of the Bengal Electoral Rules as published in the Government of India, Home Department, notification No. F 213-V., dated Simla, the 30th July 1923,

In the matter of an application for setting aside the order of Rai Sahib Bhupendra Nath Mukherjee, Acting Magistrate of Howrah and Returning Officer for the Howrah Municipal non-Muhammadan Constituency, dated the 8th day of October 1926, rejecting the nomination papers of the petitioner for election as member of the Bengal Legislative Council from the said constituency and declaring the petitioner's rival candidate, Babu Charu Chandra Sinha, as duly elected from the said constituency.

The humble petition of Khagendra Nath Ganguli, son of Babu Upendra Nath Ganguli, deceased, by caste Brahmin, by profession Vakil High Court, residing at No. 20, Khetra Mitter Lane, Salkia, thana Golabari, in the town of Howrah,

MOST RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH—

1. That your petitioner who was a member of the last Bengal Legislative Council, lately dissolved, was a candidate for election to the said Council from the Howrah Municipal non-Muhammadan Constituency and duly filed four nomination papers signed and subscribed by your petitioner, four different proposers and four different seconders, whose names are all borne on the electoral roll of the aforesaid constituency.

2. That the aforesaid nomination papers of your petitioner, complete strictly in accordance with the form prescribed in schedule III of the electoral rules, were duly filed before Rai Sahib Bhupendra Nath Mukherjee, Acting District Magistrate of Howrah and Returning Officer for the aforesaid constituency.

3. That the aforesaid constituency is entitled to return one member only to the Bengal Legislative Council; and at the last election, your petitioner and Babu Charu Chandra Sinha were the two rival candidates.

4. That, on the 8th day of October 1926, the date fixed by the said Returning Officer for the scrutiny of the nomination papers, your petitioner's rival, the aforesaid Babu Charu Chandra Sinha, raised an objection that your petitioner's nomination papers should be rejected as they did not show whether the names of your petitioner and of his proposers and seconders were included in the list of male or female voters of the constituency and the learned Returning Officer gave effect to the aforesaid objection and rejected all the four nomination papers of your petitioner by one order dated the same day, i.e., the 8th day of October 1926. A copy of the said order is annexed hereto and marked "A".

5. That your petitioner is advised and submits that the aforesaid order of the Returning Officer is bad and unsustainable; and your petitioner accordingly begs to move your Excellency on the following amongst other

Grounds:

First.—For that the learned Returning Officer was wrong in rejecting the nomination papers of your petitioner, although the said nomination papers complied with all the requirements of the electoral rules.

Secondly.—For that the learned Returning Officer was wrong in observing that in none of the nomination papers of the petitioner the description of the subdivision in which the names of your petitioner, his proposers and seconders are entered was not given, as it was not mentioned whether their names were included in the list of male or of female voters; whereas the only recognised subdivision into which the electoral roll was subdivided were the different wards of the municipality and the said nomination papers distinctly stated the description of the respective wards to which your petitioner, his proposers and seconders belonged and their numbers on the electoral roll of the said wards.

Thirdly.—For that the decision of the learned Returning Officer is clearly wrong, in as much as the "subdivision" referred to in schedule III of the electoral rules refers to subdivision into electoral areas (such as the different wards of the municipality in the present case) and does not contemplate any classification of voters according to their sex.

Fourthly.—For that the classification of voters into "male" and "female", and the heading "male electors" printed on the electoral roll of the Howrah Municipal non-Muhammadan Constituency is unauthorised and illegal and can have no reference to the "subdivision" contemplated in schedule III of the electoral rules, in view of the fact that no such expression as "males" or male electors" as signifying a subdivision of the electoral roll appears in the forms prescribed by the Government for the preparation of the electoral roll.

Fifthly.—For that the learned Returning Officer ought to have held that the classification of voters into "male" and "female" was not only unauthorised and illegal, but also inexhaustive, inasmuch as "eunuchs" who may be eligible as voters would not come under either of the said divisions.

Sixthly.—For that under the regulations for the preparation of electoral rolls for the Bengal Legislative Council, authority is given for preparation of separate electoral rolls for separate electoral areas only; contemplating one electoral roll only for one electoral area, comprising both male and female voters, and, in fact, voters of all denominations living in that electoral area; any further subdivision of such electoral roll according to the sex of the voters is unauthorised, illegal and not included within the "subdivision" referred to in schedule III of the electoral rules.

Seventhly.—For that, in accordance with the rules for the preparation of the electoral rolls the registering authority at the previous election divided the Howrah non-Muhammadan Municipal Constituency into as many electoral areas as there were wards in the municipality, and one electoral roll was prepared for each such area comprising voters of all sexes and denominations; and, this year too your Excellency's Government directed the registering authority to bring up the said electoral rolls up to date.

Eighthly.—For that the nomination papers filed by your petitioner complied with the requirements of schedule III of the electoral rules inasmuch as they did give the correct descriptions of the wards or electoral areas into which the electoral roll had been legitimately subdivided as also the numbers on such electoral rolls which your petitioner, his proposers and seconders bore on such rolls.

Ninthly.—For that the nomination papers of your petitioner having complied with all the requirements of law, and there being no doubt as to the identity of your petitioner, his proposers and seconders, the learned Returning Officer was in error in rejecting the nomination papers.

Tenthly.—For that the learned Returning Officer was in error in thinking that the unauthorised classification of voters according to their sex was what was contemplated by "subdivision of electoral roll" mentioned in schedule III of the electoral rules.

Eleventhly.—For that, in view of the fact that your petitioner, his proposers and seconders are all registered on the electoral roll of the Howrah non-Muhammadan Municipal Constituency—a fact not disputed by the rival candidate—and in view of the descriptions given in the nomination papers, the learned Returning Officer was in error in holding that your petitioner, his proposers and seconders were not qualified to stand for election or to propose or to second; and under regulation XXI, clause (2), the said learned Returning Officer should have held the production of the election roll as conclusive proof of the right of your petitioner, his proposers and seconders.

Twelfthly.—For that, at any rate, in view of the fact that female voters were not eligible to offer themselves as candidates for election to the Bengal Legislative Council, the learned Returning Officer ought to have held that the omission to state the sex of the petitioner or that of his proposers or seconders did not vitiate the nomination papers.

Thirteenthly.—For that there could not have been any doubt as to the identity of your petitioner, his proposers or his seconders in at any rate two of the four nomination papers filed by your petitioner inasmuch as the numbers in the electoral roll against the names of your petitioner, his proposers and seconders in those nomination papers were much higher than the last serial number in the list of female voters in those wards.

Fourteenthly.—For that your petitioner is informed that in other parts of the province the omission to state sex was not considered as non-compliance with the requirements of schedule III of the electoral rules, and nomination papers of candidates were accepted after scrutiny in spite of such omission.

Fifteenthly.—For that even the same learned Returning Officer who rejected your petitioner's nomination papers on the ground that they did not specify whether the candidate, his proposers and seconders were "male" or "female", immediately after such rejection, accepted, after scrutiny, the nomination papers of Mr. Manmatha Nath Roy, M.A., B.L., a candidate for election to the Bengal Legislative Council from the Howrah Rural non-Muhammadan Constituency, although none of the nomination papers of the said Mr. Manmatha Nath Roy contained the sex descriptions of the candidate, his proposers and his seconders.

6. That your petitioner is depositing the sum of rupees one thousand only in cash.

7. That your petitioner is informed that his rival candidate, Babu Charu Chandra Sinha, who was declared elected by the Returning Officer, filed his election expenses on the 10th day of November last.

And your petitioner prays that it be determined that—

(a) the order of the Returning Officer rejecting your petitioner's nomination papers was wrong and unsustainable;

(b) your petitioner's nomination papers should be accepted;

(c) the aforesaid Babu Charu Chandra Sinha's election be declared void;

(d) a fresh election should be held from the Howrah non-Muhammadan Municipal Constituency;

(e) The petitioner be declared entitled to the costs of this petition.

And your Excellency's petitioner, as in duty bound, will pray.

I, Khagendra Nath Ganguli, son of Upendra Nath Ganguli, deceased, by caste Brahmin, by profession Vakil, High Court, residing at No. 20, Khetra Mitter Lane, Salkia, thana Golabaree, district Howrah, do hereby declare that the statements contained in the above petition are all true to my knowledge except those which are distinctly stated therein as being true to my information, or as submission to His Excellency.

Signed by me, at Howrah Bar Library, this the 22nd day of November 1926.

"A"

COPY OF ORDER.

I have scrutinised the eligibility of the candidate Babu Khagendra Nath Ganguli, the proposer and seconder, and find that in none of the nomination papers (serial numbers 1, 2, 12 and 13) the description of the subdivision, viz., numbers of candidate, proposer and the seconder in which the names of the persons concerned are entered, is not complied with according to the rules, i.e., it is not mentioned whether their number in the electoral roll are in the list of male or female voters. This objection is taken by the rival candidate Babu Charu Chandra Sinha, and as I find that the description mentioned above, of the subdivision, i.e., of male or female voter, in which the names of the persons concerned are entered must also be given, and these have not been done, they are respectively not qualified to stand for election, to propose and to second the nomination.

The objection, though of a technical character, must however be considered valid as it is noted that the strict compliance of the description of the subdivision in which the name of the person concerned is entered must also be given.

(Returning Officer).

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Winter Til (Sesamum) crop of Bengal, 1926-27.

[NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1924-25, the area under til in Bengal has represented some 2·9 per cent. of the total area under til in British India.]

Character of the season.—Excepting in some districts of West Bengal, weather at the sowing time was generally favourable. Excessive rain in September retarded growth, but favourable conditions in October improved the crop. In East and North Bengal, a good outturn is expected to be reaped, but in West Bengal the prospects are less satisfactory owing to drought.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is estimated at 52,900 acres against 47,300 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to District Officers' estimates, the outturn of the crop for the province as a whole works out at 92 per cent. of the normal, against 94 per cent. last year. Taking 6½ maunds as a normal rate of yield per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 10,900 tons this year against 10,000 tons last year, or an increase of about 9 per cent.

R. S. FINLOW,
Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

KING'S POLICE MEDAL.

NOTIFICATION.

(POLICE.)

Delhi, the 1st January 1927.

No. F.-25-IV.—26-Police.—His Majesty the King, Emperor of India, has been pleased to confer the King's Police Medal, and in two cases a bar to the medal previously awarded, on the following officers and men of the Indian Police establishments :—

Name of officer and rank.	Statement of services for which in particular the decoration has been conferred
* * * * * * *
Bengal.
9. Satyendra Nath Mukerjee, Sub-Inspector of Police, Calcutta.	On the 4th April 1926 this officer whilst on hulla duty learnt that rioting was going on in Colootolla Street in his section. He proceeded immediately to the scene of occurrence and found that a man had been killed on the street and that the murderer, a local goonda of repute, had absconded. He proceeded to trace the murderer, and came across him leading and inciting a large mob 1½ hours later in Harinbari Lane. He immediately closed with the murderer, who was armed with a bloodstained chopper with which it was subsequently ascertained that he had committed the murder. The Sub-Inspector had with him only three constables, and desperate attempts were made by the murderer to free himself. The Sub-Inspector held on till re-inforcements came up and eventually removed the murderer to Police Headquarters. The murderer was subsequently found guilty and sentenced to death by the High Court. This Sub-Inspector ran great personal risk and displayed great courage and devotion to duty in arresting this desperado from amid an excited mob. This officer was also responsible for the discovery of property looted and for the arrest of the accused in a communal dacoity which occurred during the riots on the 2nd April in which the accused were subsequently convicted by the High Court. He has also taken a prominent part in suppressing the cocaine traffic and gambling in his section and in arresting smugglers.
10. Robin Neil, Sergeant, Calcutta Police.	On the 3rd April 1926 during the communal riots in Calcutta whilst on duty in Chitpur Road this officer was confronted by a large crowd immediately south of his beat. A private motor car which was passing was attacked by a hooligan who dashed out of the crowd and deliberately broke the wind screen with a lathi and wounded the driver. Sergeant Neil immediately pursued the man and arrested him in face of a threatening crowd. The same day whilst on rounds on his motor cycle Sergeant Neil found a big burly Muhammadan committing a murderous assault on a Hindu in Mechua Bazar Street. Sergeant Neil pursued the Muhammadan, chased him into a dwelling house, arrested him, made him get into his side car and took him to Sukea Street Police Station. They were attacked by a mob the whole way down Mechua Bazar Street. His action on this occasion undoubtedly saved the Hindu's life. In addition whilst on patrol work with his cycle he broke up and dispersed several unlawful crowds.

Name of officer and rank.	Statement of services for which in particular the decoration has been conferred.
11. George John Adamson, Sergeant, Calcutta Police.	On the 25th April 1926 during the second phase of the April riots in Calcutta this Sergeant was in charge of an armoured car in Beadon Street. He encountered a large hostile crowd which attacked the car. He left the car in company with one of the crew and dispersed the crowd at the point of his revolver after firing one shot. On the 27th April whilst again in charge of an armoured car in Mechua Bazar he encountered one of the worst mobs in the city and on this occasion displayed very great qualities of initiative and control. The mob had just murdered a police officer and were looting and murdering in the locality. Sergeant Adamson fired a warning shot from the armoured car and then ordered two bursts of controlled machine gun fire. This had the desired effect and was sufficient to disperse one of the most dangerous mobs dealt with during the riots. Sergeant Adamson displayed very great gallantry and very high qualities of leadership on both the occasions referred to.
12. David Fisher, Assistant Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.	Mr. Fisher joined the Calcutta Police as an Inspector in 1908, and was promoted to the rank of Assistant Commissioner in November 1918. He remained in charge of the Police Training College until March 1920 when he took charge of the headquarters for a year. He has been permanent Assistant Commissioner at headquarters since 1923. During the whole of the non-co-operation movement in 1921 Mr. Fisher performed meritorious service in dealing with the non-co-operation campaign and displayed qualities of tact, patience and organisation. He has been responsible during the last three years for the discipline and order of the headquarters force, including the European Sergeants. This has been carried out by Mr. Fisher with conspicuous success In connection with the two outbreaks of rioting in April 1926 Mr. Fisher again displayed a very high capacity for organisation and initiative. He participated in the worst of the riots and on all occasions led his men with conspicuous gallantry and success. In addition the manner in which he distributed and controlled his forces during the riots called for the highest praise. His services during this whole period were invaluable and were characterised by extreme patience, foresight and endurance. He has shown great devotion to duty and administrative ability.
13. Frank Austin Tucker, Station Officer, Calcutta Fire Brigade.	Mr. Tucker joined the Calcutta Police in 1912, and in the following year his services were transferred to the Calcutta Fire Brigade, where he has risen to the position of Station Officer. He is in charge of one of the most important fire stations, which he has administered in an extremely able manner. He did exceptionally good work during the fire which occurred at Writers' Buildings in 1921, for which he was rewarded. During the Calcutta riots in April 1926 the brunt of extinguishing the fires fell to his lot: he attended the majority of the calls, and showed conspicuous ability in dealing with an unprecedented situation. In a great measure it was due to him that, in spite of the incendiarism indulged in by the rioters, no lives were lost and that the fires were confined to the premises of origin. During the riots he rescued, and safely delivered to the Postmaster-General mail bags which were being ransacked by the rioters in a mail van the driver of which had been murdered. He was also responsible for the rescue of an Indian mail van attendant from an assault by the rioters, and had him conveyed to hospital. Throughout his service he has shown great devotion to duty, often at considerable personal risk, and on more than one occasion he has received serious injuries at fires.

Amendment of section 56, Act XI of 1922.

10. The proviso to section 56 of the said Act shall be omitted.

Insertion of new section 65A in Act XI of 1922

Condition requisite for registration of a firm.

11. After section 65 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

"65A. Nothing in clause (14) of section 2 shall be deemed to require an Income-tax Officer to register the prescribed particulars in regard to any firm if he is not satisfied that the profits and gains of the firm are distributed to the partners therein in proportion to their individual shares as specified in the instrument of partnership."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. It has been held that draught animals and other live stock are not "plant" within the meaning of section 10 (2) (vi) of the Income-tax Act, 1922 (XI of 1922). But as horses, bullocks, elephants, etc., used for draught purposes are analogous to "plant", it is proposed in clause 2 (a) of the Bill to permit an assessee in computing his income from business to deduct as a business expense the cost of the live stock purchased for use in his business (not as stock in trade) to replace his stock so used.

2. The Calcutta High Court have held that road cess levied on coal mines is an admissible deduction from the assessable profits of the mine. The cess though nominally levied on immoveable property is actually calculated with reference to the annual profits of the mines. It is, therefore, a tax on profits and generally speaking anything that is of the nature of a tax on profits is not allowed as a deduction in assessing income-tax. Moreover the Central Government have always contended that provincial or local taxes on profits should not take precedence of Central taxes on the same profits and, if this principle is sacrificed, serious loss to Central revenues may result. Clause 2 (b) of the Bill makes it clear that an assessee is not entitled to deduct, in computing income, any sums paid to a local authority in respect of any tax (cess, rate, etc.) assessed on the basis of profits even though it may be nominally imposed on immoveable property.

3. The Act is silent as to the correct procedure for the assessment in the year following the one in which partition is effected in a Hindu undivided family. Clause 4 of the Bill provides for assessment in such cases.

4. There are conflicting rulings pronounced by the Bombay and Allahabad High Courts as to how the assessment should be made in the year after there has been a change in the "constitution" of an assessee, where, for example, a firm has become a Company. While the Allahabad High Court have held that where a firm has become a Company, the assessment should be made as though the firm were still in existence at the time of assessment, the Bombay High Court have ruled that the assessment should be made as though the Company had been in existence when the profits that have to be taxed were earned. Clause 5 of the Bill follows the Allahabad High Court ruling and also extends to income-tax the principle of the proviso to section 56 under which where there has been a change in the personnel of firm, the partners of the firm at the time of assessment are assessed to super-tax on the profits of the firm in the previous year with reference to the shares that each then holds.

5. It is necessary to confer on the Assistant Commissioners of Income-tax and Commissioners of Income-tax the power to rectify mistakes in their appellate or review orders which they do not at present possess. Clause 6 of the Bill confers such powers.

6. Clause 7 of the Bill makes the law more definite in regard to the assessment of the profits of (1) export trade conducted by (a) residents and (b) agencies or branches in British India of non-residents and (2) import trade conducted by agencies or branches in British India of non-residents. Section 42 of the Act which deals with the assessment of non-residents is vague and this is neither satisfactory from the view of the Government nor fair to the tax-payer. Moreover conflicting decisions on this subject have been pronounced by the High Courts of Madras, Calcutta and Rangoon.

7. At present an Income-tax Officer has no power to impose a penalty of less than the maximum amount mentioned in section 46 of the Act. It is considered desirable to empower an Income-tax Officer to impose a penalty less than the maximum and to increase it successively up to the maximum should the default in payment of tax be persisted in by the assessee.

8. Following the British Income-tax law, it is proposed to withhold the grant of refunds under section 48 (small income relief) in respect of dividends of Companies and interest on Indian securities from non-residents who are not British subjects or subjects of Indian States, while refunds to non-resident British subjects or subjects of Indian States will be allowed and calculated not with reference as at present to the claimant's total income taxable in British India, but with reference to his total income wherever derived which would be taxable if it accrued, arose or was received in British India. To non-residents who are not British subjects except subjects of Indian States there seems to be no reason why India should be more generous than the United Kingdom. As the law at present stands, large sums are refunded to non-resident share-holders many of whom may be in receipt of considerable income in other countries and the non-resident therefore enjoys an unfair advantage over residents in British India. Clause 9 of the Bill gives effect to the above proposal.

9. At present many bogus partnership deeds are produced for registration before the Income tax Officers under section 2 (14) of the Act even when the accounts are incomplete and show no division of profits amongst the partners. It appears, therefore, desirable to provide that a firm should not be registered unless it not merely files a deed of partnership specifying the partners' shares, but also actually divides the profits in accordance with those shares. Clause 11 of the Bill gives effect to the proposal.

60. Russian Language.—As for French.

(8) A candidate assigned to a province the principal vernacular language of which is a language with which he is familiar, or is a language closely allied to one with which he is familiar, will not be examined in that language but in the substitute or substitutes named below. A candidate assigned to Madras who is familiar with either Tamil or Telugu, but not with both, will offer the other for examination ; if he is familiar with both Tamil and Telugu he will be examined in the appropriate substitute or substitutes.

In the circumstances stated the substitute for the vernacular language for a One-Year Probationer is British History ; for a Two-Year Probationer it is British History at the Intermediate Examination and European History at the Final Examination.

The Civil Service Commissioners will in each case decide whether a candidate is to study the principal vernacular or the substituted subject or subjects.

(9) The ordinary session of the Final Examination for the testing of Riding will take place in advance of the rest of the Final Examination, and a special session will when necessary be held at a later date for the benefit of any candidate who may have failed at the ordinary session.

Candidates who at the ordinary session fall short of this adequate proficiency but show such minimum proficiency as is evidence that with a moderate amount of practice they can attain full proficiency, will receive marks ranging between 1 and 100 ; they will be allowed to proceed to India and will on their arrival there be subjected to such further tests in riding as may be prescribed by their Local Government, and shall receive no increase to their initial salary until they have passed such tests to the satisfaction of that Government.

Any candidate who at the ordinary session fails to show a minimum proficiency will be examined again at a special session. If he then attains adequate proficiency he will not be subjected to further tests in India. If he attains minimum proficiency he will be allowed to proceed to India under the same condition as if he had attained minimum proficiency at the ordinary session. No credit in marks will be given for any performance at a special session.

Probationers may also be examined in riding at such time or times as the Commissioners may appoint during the course of the probationary period.

A candidate who fails at the end of the period of probation to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners that he has reached the minimum standard of proficiency in riding will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Selected Candidates.

(10) Such deductions as the Civil Service Commissioners may consider necessary will be made from the marks assigned to candidates at the Intermediate and Final Examinations in order to secure that no credit is allowed for merely superficial knowledge.

(11) The Civil Service Commissioners will prepare lists of the candidates in order of merit ; the order for the one-year probationers being based on the sum of the marks obtained by the candidates at the Open Competitive and Final Examinations, the order for the two-year probationers being based on the sum of the marks obtained by the candidates at the Intermediate and Final Examinations.

(12) The Selected Candidates whose performance in the compulsory subjects of the Final Examination is such as to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners, and who have also satisfied the Commissioners of their eligibility in respect of nationality, age, health, character, and conduct during the period of probation, shall be certified by the Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Indian Civil Service, provided that they shall comply with the regulations in force, at the time, for that Service.

(13) If any candidate is prevented by sickness or any other adequate cause from attending the Final Examination, the Commissioners may, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State for India in Council, allow him to appear at the Final Examination to be held in the following year, or at a special examination. A Selected Candidate absent for such adequate cause from the Intermediate Examination may, under similar conditions, be allowed to appear at the Intermediate Examination a year later or at a special examination or may be excused the Intermediate Examination and allowed to appear for the Final Examination in regular course.

Any candidate who at the Intermediate Examination shall appear to have wilfully neglected his studies, or to be physically incapacitated for pursuing the prescribed course of training, will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Selected Candidates.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

made by the Civil Service Commissioners with the authority of the Secretary of State for India in Council :—

(i) Selected Candidates will be allotted to the various provinces upon a consideration of all the circumstances, including their own wishes ; but the requirements of the Public Service will rank before every other consideration.

(ii) An allowance of £300 a year, or, in the case of Selected Candidates possessing an Indian domicile, an allowance of £350 a year will be given to any candidate who passes his probation at one of the Universities or other Institutions that have been approved for the purpose by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

In the case of Selected Candidates on probation for one year the allowance will be payable in four equal instalments on the following dates respectively : December 24th after his selection, March 25th, June 25th and after signature of Covenant on appointment to the Service.

In the case of Selected Candidates on probation for two years the allowance will be payable in eight equal instalments, the first on the December 24th after selection, the second to the seventh on the six following quarter days and the eighth after signature of Covenant on appointment to the Service.

The payment of the various instalments of the allowance except the final instalment, and, in the case of the two-year probationers, the instalment payable at the end of the first year of probation, will be conditional on the receipt by the Secretary of State through the Civil Service Commissioners of a certificate that the candidate has fulfilled up to date the requirements of the authorities and shown satisfactory conduct at the approved institution.

If an Indian Government Scholar becomes a Selected Candidate for the Indian Civil Service, his scholarship stipend shall cease to be paid with effect from the 1st october of the year in which he becomes a Selected Candidate. He may, however, provided he has executed the agreement referred to in (iv) below, be granted on, or at any time after, the 1st October, an advance on account of the instalment of the allowance payable on the 24th December.

The whole probation must ordinarily be passed at the same institution. Migration will not be permitted except for special reasons approved by the Secretary of State.

N.B.—The Secretary of State for India gives notice that the amount of the allowances will be reconsidered in 1927, with a view to a possible reduction with effect from the instalment payable in December 1927.

(iii) A first class passage to India will be engaged for Selected Candidates with a view to their proceeding to India during the November following their Final Examination.

(v) Each candidate will be required before receiving the first instalment of his allowance to execute an agreement binding himself and one surety jointly and severally to refund all moneys he may have received from the Secretary of State for India in the event of :—

(1) his failure to pass the Final Examination within the time prescribed by the Regulations, and to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners of his fitness for admission to the Indian Civil Service, or

(2) his subsequent failure to execute the usual Covenant, and to proceed to India, as and when he shall be directed by the Secretary of State for India.

(v) All candidates obtaining certificates will be also required to enter into Covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to make such payments as under the rules and regulations for the time being in force they may be required to make for the pensions of their families. The stamps payable on these Covenants amount to £ 1.

(vi) Candidates appointed to the Indian Civil Service after undergoing one year's probation will be senior to those appointed in the same year after undergoing two years' probation. The seniority of candidates of each class inter se will be determined by the order in which their names appear on the lists referred to in clause (11) of the Regulations.

(vii) Candidates who fail to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners at the Final Examination held in any year will be definitely rejected, and will not be allowed to present themselves for re-examination, unless it shall appear to the Secretary of State in Council, after reference to the Civil Service Commissioners, that such failure is due to circumstances wholly exceptional and beyond the control of the candidate.

(viii) "Overseas pay" will not be admissible to Indian members of the Indian Civil Service selected at Open Competitive Examinations held in London in 1925 and subsequent years.

For the week ending on the 12th January 1927.

Summary.—During the week light rain fell over the greater part of the Presidency. It has helped cultivation for autumn crops and has probably benefitted standing rabi crops, with the possible exception of magi mustard. Reaping of winter paddy is approaching completion and threshing continues. Transplantation of summer rice is progressing favourably. The average price of common rice for the province has fallen by about 1 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

RESOLUTION ON THE SIXTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATIONS AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1925-26.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Cinchona.

CALCUTTA, THE 4TH JANUARY 1927.

RESOLUTION—No. 1530in.

READ—

The sixty-fourth annual report of the Government Cinchona Plantations and Factory in Bengal, for the year 1925-26.

READ ALSO—

The reports of the previous three years.

Mr. C. C. Calder held charge of the office of Superintendent throughout the year.

1. The Government Cinchona Department works two plantations, one at Mungpoo and the other at Munsong, both in the district of Darjeeling, and has also a factory at Mungpoo where quinine and its by-products are manufactured from the bark of trees grown in these plantations and also from Java bark obtained from the Government of India. The area under cinchona at the end of the year was 3,153 acres, showing an increase of 93 acres over the previous year's area of 3,060. The quantity of bark harvested was 538,783 lbs. as against 432,553 lbs. in the previous year. The full outturn could not however be utilised in the factory as there was a large stock of Java bark which required to be treated first. On the whole 1,039,912 lbs. of bark were treated in the factory against 935,998 lbs. in the previous year.

There is considerable difficulty in securing suitable soil for further extension of the plantations. The result of the experiment in the Latpanchor Spur is not hopeful, and the proposal for an experiment in the Samsing area is under examination.

2. The quantity of factory-produce sold during the year was 42,554 lbs. against 43,143 lbs. in the previous year. The decrease was due to a decrease in the sale of Cinchona Febrifuge which had an exceptionally large sale in the previous year. The sale-rates of Quinine Sulphate and other quinine salts which were reduced in the previous year were further reduced during the year under review Receipts from sales amounted to Rs. 7,58,290, and the total expenditure was Rs. 3,72,870. The profit and loss valuation gives a balance of Rs. 1,93,566 on the profit side, and although this last item was less than in the previous year, the financial results on the whole have been satisfactory.

The preparation of a working plan for the plantations based on an up-to-date survey of the trees, which are now bearing bark and can be expected to bear bark in the next twenty years, is urgently needed.

In the absence of such a survey the figures given for stock in the profit and loss accounts cannot be held to be accurate. Nevertheless there does not seem to be any apprehension of the plantations falling below their present output in the near future, and the thanks of Government are due to Mr. Calder for his efficient administration of the department.

ORDER —Ordered that this resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that a copy with a copy of the report be submitted to the Government of India.

By order of the Governor in Council,

F. A. SACHSE,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.).

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Wheat Crop of Bengal, 1926-27.

NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1924-25, the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·4 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of the irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has, in the five years ending 1924-25, averaged (a) 40·7 and (b) 14·6 per cent., respectively.

Explanatory.—Four forecasts of the wheat crop are published. This forecast deals only with the area sown and the general condition of the crop in its early stages.

Acreage.—According to the estimates of the District Officers the total area sown amounts to 128,700 acres as against 130,600 and 130,500 acres, reported, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Character of the Season.—The rainfall in September and the early part of October was adequate for the preparatory tillage and for the sowings of the crop which generally took place at the normal time. The drought, however, which followed and continued up till the middle of December, has affected the growth in some districts, viz., Birbhum, Bankura, Rajshahi and Malda. The present condition is reported to be fair, on the whole.

DACCA, the 18th January 1927. Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

The Governor in Council is pleased to nominate the following gentlemen as representatives of European and Indian Commerce of Calcutta, respectively, on the Advisory Pilot Committee constituted in Bengal Government Resolution No. 3817 Mne., dated the 25th November 1924, for the year 1927 :—

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF WARDS', ATTACHED AND TRUST ESTATES IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1332 B.S. (1925-26).

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Land Revenue.

CALCUTTA, THE 24TH JANUARY 1927.

RESOLUTION—No. 1103 L.R.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of Wards', Attached and Trust Estates in the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1332 B. S. (1925-26).

READ ALSO—

The reports of the preceding three years.

1. Four estates, including Santosh (6 annas) were released from the management by the Court of Wards during the year, but ten new estates were added, of which the most important was the Kakina estate which, however, carried with it a heavy liability. The total rent demand of the estates under the Court's management was Rs. 136·7 lakhs as against Rs. 110, 105 and 107 lakhs in the preceding three years. Of the total of Rs. 136·7 lakhs, over 22 lakhs must be classed as doubtful debts. There was a slight fall in the percentage of collection, but it was still 110·7 per cent. of the current demand.

2. The total of the debts outstanding at the close of the year was Rs. 85·6 lakhs; and though according to the schemes of repayment these debts should have been reduced to Rs. 30·5 lakhs, the Governor in Council recognises the difficulties in carrying out these schemes fully, and notices with satisfaction that the debts of one large estate were all liquidated during the year, and the debts of four other estates were repaid well in advance of their schemes.

3. The cost of management proper was 13·2 per cent. of the current demand, but His Excellency regrets that so much as 8 per cent. should have been spent in addition on law charges. It is satisfactory, however, that the Court found it possible to disburse the minimum rates of 1 per cent. for education and 3 per cent. for agricultural and sanitary improvements in the solvent estates.

4. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to the Board of Revenue for the administration of the estates under the management of the Court of Wards. He also notices with pleasure the good work done by the managers mentioned in the report.

By order of the Governor in Council,

F. A. SACHSE.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.).

No time served before the age of 15 will be accepted. Not less than three years in India or a British Colony and two years in the United Kingdom, Europe, the United States of America or Japan of this period must have been spent at fitting, erecting or repairing internal combustion engines. The remaining two years may have been spent either wholly or in part on the work of this nature, or at an approved technical school as mentioned in the rules for examination of sea-going engineers.

Service as journeyman will be considered as equivalent to apprenticeship, but no time served before the age of fifteen is reached will be accepted.

Workshop service other than the above may be accepted if it is considered useful training for a motor engineer, but all such cases must be submitted to the examiner for consideration before the candidate is examined, and at least an additional three months of qualifying service on marine internal combustion engines, either in the works or on regular watch in the main engine-room of vessels propelled by these engines, must have been performed in respect of each twelve months of workshop service of this nature, or other than on the making or repairing of internal combustion engines so accepted. If the service is not altogether satisfactory a longer additional period than that specified may be required.

Any deficiency in the requisite five or four years' workshop service may be made up by service afloat on regular watch in the main engine-room of a vessel of not less than 565 brake horse-power propelled by internal combustion engines.

If the vessel is a sea-going vessel one and a half times the period of deficiency must be served, and if an inland vessel two and a quarter times the period of deficiency will be required. Thus a candidate who has no workshop service must put in 7½ or 6 years as the case may be in a suitable sea-going vessel: or 11¼ or 9 years as the case may be in an inland vessel in lieu of his apprenticeship.

(b) In addition to the workshop service as above described or the alternative service afloat, the candidate must have spent 18 months at sea as engineer on regular watch on the main engines of a sea-going ship propelled by internal combustion engines of not less than 565 brake horse-power or 27 months in a similar inland vessel.

He must also be able to work out questions relating to spring or lever-loaded safety and relief valves ; consumption of oil and stores ; capacities of tanks, bunkers, etc., speed of vessel, and other similar problems ; and be able to calculate suitable working pressures for air receivers of given dimensions, and the stress per square inch on crank and tunnel shafts and other parts of the machinery when the necessary data are furnished.

15. He must be able to give a clear explanation of the principles on which oil, gas or other internal combustion engines work, including the methods of ignition, to point out the differences between them, and to show by means of illustrative sketches and otherwise that he understands the details of the construction of those in general use.

16. He must be familiar with the various methods of supplying air and fuel to the cylinders in the different types of engines, the construction of the apparatus for carburetting, atomising, or gasifying the fuel, and the means for cooling the cylinders, pistons, etc.

17. He must have a satisfactory knowledge of the process employed in the construction of internal combustion engines in the workshop, and of the methods used in fitting the machinery on board ship.

He must also be able to show that he understands the mechanism of the starting and reversing arrangements, and is competent to deal with defects therein.

20. He must understand how to make good the results or ordinary wear and tear to the machinery; how to test the fairness of shafting, etc., how to correct defects from accident, delay, etc., and how a temporary or permanent repair could be effected in case of derangement or total breakdown.

21. He must understand the construction of the pressure gauge, barometer, thermometer, and other instruments used in the engine-room, and the principles on which they work.

22. He must understand the construction and working of centrifugal, bucket, and plunger pumps, and the principles on which they act.

23. He must understand the construction and working of air compressors, gas producers, steering engines, electric light engines and dynamos, electric motors, refrigerating, hydraulic and other auxiliary machinery found on board ship.

24. He must possess a good working knowledge of the construction and management of auxiliary steam boilers and machinery and be familiar with the prominent facts relating to combustion, heat and steam.

25. He must be familiar with the nature and properties of the various oils, etc., generally used in internal combustion engines; must understand what is meant by the "flash point"; and have a knowledge of the explosive properties of gas or the vapour given off by these oils, etc., when mixed with definite quantities of air; and be thoroughly conversant with the danger of exposing such gas or vapour to a naked light; or of allowing any leakage from the oil tanks, particularly into the vessels, bilges, and unventilated spaces, or from gas producers, pipes, vaporizers, etc.

26. He must thoroughly understand the precautions to be taken against fire or explosion from oil or gas, and know how to deal with fire should it break out. He should also be familiar with the action of wire gauze diaphragms when placed in pipes and connections to oil tanks, etc., for the purpose of preventing the explosion or ignition of oil vapour therein.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1926-27.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1924-25, the area under sugarcane has represented some 7·6 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the Season.—As indicated in the preceding forecasts the weather at planting time was generally favourable. But subsequent drought and untimely rain interfered with the growth of the crop to some extent, especially in the districts of the Presidency Division, Malda and Mymensingh. In Midnapore, the crop was slightly affected by flood in August. On the whole a fair crop has been reaped for the province.

Acreage.—The total area planted with the crop for the province is estimated at 200,800 acres this year as against 215,000 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of District Officers, the average outturn of the crop for the province works out at 80 per cent. of the normal this year, as against 85 per cent. last year.

Taking 36½ maunds as the normal yield of cane-gur per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 215,400 tons this year, as against 245,000 tons last year.

Other sources of gur.—The total quantity of gur likely to be obtained from date palm juice and others is estimated at 107,900 tons this year, as against 108,500 tons last year.

The quantity of gur for the province from all sources is thus estimated at 323,300 tons this year, as against 353,500 tons last year.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

This election petition has been presented by Pandit Santi Shekhareswar Roy, a candidate for election to the Council of State from the East Bengal Non-Muhammadan Constituency, at the bye-election held in July-August, 1926.

He challenges the election of the successful candidate, Kumar Sankar Roy Chowdhry, on the following grounds :—

(1) That the nomination paper of this candidate was improperly accepted by the Returning Officer, as it was not duly completed in the form prescribed in Schedule III of the Council of State Electoral Rules.

(2) That it was improperly accepted because the name of the said returned candidate was registered on the electoral rolls of two constituencies, in contravention of rule 7 (1), proviso 3 of the Council of State Electoral Rules.

(3) That the publication, by the returned candidate, of a circular letter to the electors immediately before the election, amounted to a corrupt practice within the meaning of rule 4 of Schedule V, Part I of the Electoral Rules.

(4) That the nomination papers of another unsuccessful candidate, Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerji, were improperly accepted by the Returning Officer, as two of them were incorrect in form, while the third had been signed by the candidate some days before it was subscribed by his proposer and seconder.

On these grounds the petitioner claims that the election of the successful candidate, Kumar Sankar Roy Chowdhry, should be declared invalid and that the petitioner himself should be declared duly elected on the ground that he obtained more votes than any other candidate whose nomination was valid.

The successful candidate is the only respondent who has appeared.

On his behalf a preliminary objection was taken that the Commissioners had no jurisdiction to enquire into the merits of the case, because the original petition to His Excellency the Governor General was not properly verified in accordance with Or. VI, rule 15 of the Civil Procedure Code.

We hold that there is no substance in this contention.

Meticulous application of the provisions of the Code is nowhere prescribed in the election rules relating to the trial of petitions. In any event, we hold, in accordance with the view taken by other similar tribunals dealing with election cases, that we are not competent to go behind our appointment as Commissioners for the trial of this petition, or to enquire into the question of proper presentation. This objection is accordingly disallowed.

The next question for consideration is whether the nomination paper of the returned candidate, the respondent here, was improperly accepted by the Returning Officer on the ground that it was not duly completed.

The paper shows the name of the constituency to be "East Bengal Non-Muhammadan Constituency of the Council of State".

Opposite the heading "Constituency on the electoral roll of which the candidate is registered as an elector", is the entry "East Bengal Non-Muhammadan Constituency of the Council of State, Dacca District".

It is urged that the addition of the words "Dacca District" to the official designation of the constituency invalidates the nomination paper. We do not accept this contention. There is no misdescription of the constituency. There is no possibility of mistake arising from the addition of the words in question, which appear at the head of the Electoral Roll containing the name of the Respondent himself. The variation was trivial and immaterial.

We have next to consider whether the admitted fact that the name of the successful candidate, Kumar Sankar Roy Chowdhry, appears on the electoral rolls of both East an I West Bengal Non-Muhammadan constituencies invalidates his election to represent the East Bengal constituency.

It has been most strenuously contended that in view of the proviso to rule 7 of the Election Rules, which lays down that no person shall be entitled to have his name registered on the electoral roll of more than one general constituency, his nomination paper should have been rejected, and that he could neither vote nor stand in either constituency.

The issue actually framed on this point was whether his nomination paper was improperly accepted because his name appeared on two electoral rolls.

Now the reasons which justify the rejection of a nomination paper by the Returning Officer are given in rule 20 of the Council of State Electoral Regulations. There is no reference in this rule to any disability arising from an entry of the name of the candidate in two electoral rolls. It is to the effect that the production of any certified copy of an entry made in the electoral roll of any constituency shall be conclusive proof of the right of the elector named to stand for election unless it is proved that he is disqualified under rule 4 or rule 5 of the Election Rules or that his proposer or seconder is disqualified.

It is not contended here that Kumar Sankar, his proposer or his seconder, were disqualified under any of the rules referred to, and it would therefore appear that the production of the Electoral Roll containing his name precluded the Returning Officer from rejecting his nomination.

We are further of opinion that on broad general grounds, the contention of the petitioner on this point is unsound.

He asserts that the Respondent is disqualified as a candidate because his name appears on two electoral rolls.

The qualifications of elected members, or, more correctly speaking, the circumstances which render them ineligible for election, are stated in Part II of the Council of State Election Rules. There is no mention in this part of any disqualification arising from registration in more than one constituency.

Part III, which contains the proviso that no person shall be entitled to have his name registered in more than one constituency, deals with the Electoral Roll and the qualifications of voters. Rule 10 of that part provides that no person shall vote at any general election in more than one general constituency. It says further that if any person is proved to have voted in contravention of the above rule, his vote shall be void.

These rules must, we think, be taken to contemplate the possibility of error in the preparation of the Electoral Roll, a duty performed by a registering authority appointed by the Local Government, and not by the voters.

We cannot see that any disability attaches to a voter merely because of an error in the rolls. If he takes advantage of the error to vote at a general election in more than one general constituency, he is penalized to the extent that his vote is void.

In the present case, the election was a bye-election, and it is not alleged in the petition that the candidate voted. Had he voted, rule 10 would not apply.

We are therefore clearly of opinion that there is nothing in the Electoral Rules to warrant the finding that because the name of this Respondent appears on the electoral rolls of two constituencies, he is disqualified as a candidate at a bye-election in one of them. No such provision exists in the rules, and we can find no justification for an attempt to read it into the rules.

We accordingly hold that his nomination was not improperly accepted on this ground, and that his election was not invalid.

We have then to consider the allegation of corrupt practice.

The Respondent, before the election, issued a circular letter to the electors which contained the following statement :—

"During the last election, when the late Deshbandhu C. R Das wanted somebody to keep a seat safe for him in the Legislative Assembly so that he might go there later on, I offered myself temporarily for the seat, to which I was elected by the kindness of my constituents, and I continued there only because Deshbandhu later on decided to go to the Bengal Council. So long as I was in the Assembly as a representative of the Rajshahi and Chittagong Divisions I looked after the interests of my constituency as best I could . . . .".

This statement is said to constitute a corrupt practice within the meaning of rule 4 of Schedule V of the Election Rules.

The definition of a corrupt practice there given is the publication by a candidate . . . . of any statement of fact which is false and which he believes to be false or does not believe to be true in relation to the . . . . conduct of any candidate . . . which statement is reasonably calculated to prejudice the prospects of such candidate's election.

It was most ingeniously argued that the words "any candidate" include the candidate making the statement, and that the word "prejudice" must be taken to connote the exercise of a favourable as well as an unfavourable influence.

Then it was said that the letter itself implied that Kumar Sankar had resigned his seat in the Assembly, which was untrue, and that he made this statement with a view to influence the electors to send him to the Council of State.

The plain meaning of the words used in the letter is that Kumar Sankar, after his election to the Assembly, was prepared at any time to resign his seat if required to make room for his leader, but that while he actually sat he furthered the interests of his constituents to the best of his ability.

No attempt has been made to challenge either statement, and we accept them both.

We can discover no implication in their language that the Respondent resigned his seat. His evidence is that he walked out of the Assembly with the other members of the Swaraj Party on the 8th March, 1926, and did not return after that date.

Lastly, we are of opinion that the interpretation sought to be given to the language of rule 4, Schedule V of the Electoral Rules, is not warranted.

We accordingly hold that there was no corrupt practice committed by the Respondent, Kumar Sankar Roy Chowdhry. It follows that his election was valid.

In view of this finding, it is unnecessary to examine closely the contention raised with regard to the nomination of the defeated candidate, Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerji.

We may however say that while one of his three nomination papers was invalid because the candidate accepted the proposal before it was made, we think the defects in the others were formal and not material, and should be condoned.

Moreover, there is no averment in the petition, and no evidence on record, to suggest that the result of the election would have been materially affected by the rejection of the nomination papers of this candidate.

We accordingly find that the Respondent, Kumar Sankar Roy Chowdhry, was duly elected to the Council of State.

We recommend that the petition of Pandit Santi Shekhareswar Roy should be dismissed, and that he do pay the costs of the Respondent, which we assess at Rs. 250.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to give effect to the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Indian Currency and Finance for the establishment of a Gold Standard for India and for constituting a Reserve Bank of India to control the working of that Standard. The various clauses of the Bill are briefly explained below.

Clause 1.—It is proposed to give the Bank the sole right of note issue for a period of twenty-five years in the first instance subject to renewal as recommended in paragraph 141 of the Commission's report. The provision that the Act shall come into force not later than 1st January, 1929, is based upon the time-table recommended by the Commission in paragraph 165 of the report.

Clause 3.—The name, the Reserve Bank of India, is that suggested in paragraph 92 of the report.

Clause 4.—The Commission recommend that the capital of the Bank should be Rupees five crores fully paid up, and that the Imperial Bank's shareholders should be given the first opportunity of subscribing for the capital stock of the Bank as consideration for foregoing important privileges which the Imperial Bank now enjoys. A clear-cut division of functions between the Reserve Bank of India and the Imperial Bank of India is the essence of the proposal creating a Reserve Bank and, if avoidable, it is undesirable to give the shareholders of the Imperial Bank of India a preponderant voice in deciding the currency police of the Reserve Bank. It is therefore proposed in this clause to give the Imperial Bank of India as an institution and not to its individual shareholders the option of subscribing thirty per cent. of the capital. It will be open to the Imperial Bank to distribute the allotment among its shareholders if it so desires. The Central Board of the Imperial Bank of India has expressed its willingness in principle, in view of the other terms proposed to be given to the Imperial Bank, to recommend this proposal for the acceptance of the shareholders.

It is necessary that the Government should be prepared to take up any unallotted shares, but it is not desirable that these should continue to be held permanently by them. It is, therefore, proposed that the Governor General in Council should dispose of any unallotted shares taken up by him within three years.

Clause 5.—This is based on paragraph 101 of the Commission's report. It is necessary to make provision for the contingency of a reduction of the share capital in regard to which the Commission have made no recommendation.

Clause 6.—The Head Office of the Bank will be located in Bombay as recommended by the Commission in paragraph 97 of the report.

Clause 8.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraphs 95 and 96 of the report.

Clause 9.—This is based on paragraph 94 of the Commission's report. The Commission recommend therein that the Reserve Bank should have Local Boards in Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, and that representatives from these Boards should constitute a majority on the Central Board. It is considered undesirable for various reasons to base the constitution of the Central Board on a system of Local Boards. If the Local Boards are dispensed with, it is necessary that shareholders as a body should elect those Directors who are not appointed by the Government.

As regards nominated Directors, it is considered desirable in order that all interests may be represented that the three Directors nominated by Government should represent Commerce, Industry and Agriculture, respectively. The term of office of nominated Directors is proposed by the Commission to be fixed at one year which is too short to conduce to efficient work. It is, therefore, proposed to extend it to three years.

Clause 10.—It is provided in this clause that the Governor, Deputy Governor or any nominated Director may be removed by the Governor General in Council if a resolution to that effect is passed by a majority of the Board consisting of not less than nine Directors, that is by a substantial majority of the Board.

The provision for the removal of elected Directors follows the lines of a similar provision in the Imperial Bank of India Act. It seems undesirable that elected Directors should be removable by a bare majority at a general meeting.

Clause 11.—As there may be no Local Board at Calcutta, it is desirable to provide that the Central Board shall meet in Calcutta at least once in every four months.

Clause 12.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 98 of the Commission's report.

Clause 13.—This is based upon similar provision in section 30 of the Imperial Bank of India Act. It is necessary to make special provision for the formation of the first Board.

Clauses 14 and 16.—These embody the proposals in Schedule II to the report defining the functions and capacities of the Bank.

The Commission have not provided for the Reserve Bank receiving non-interest-bearing deposits from private persons. It is considered that like most other Central Banks in the world the Reserve Bank of India should also be allowed to receive deposits from private persons provided no interest is paid.

The financing of industry and the movement of crops in India is carried on by cash credits and as provision recommended by the Commission stands it will be difficult for the Reserve Bank to assist other banks in providing necessary credit without some considerable changes in banking methods. It is, therefore, proposed in sub-clause (4) (e) that for a period of five years the Bank should be authorised to advance money against promissory notes of scheduled banks under certain conditions.

It is considered undesirable to limit the amount of securities held at any time in the Banking department to so low a figure as 25 per cent. of the liabilities as recommended by the Commission in clause 3 (d) of Schedule II to their report, as in view of the very fluctuating nature of deposits the limitation might force the sale of securities merely to bring the Bank within the provisions of its charter for a few days.

The Commission recommend in clause 7(a) of Schedule II to the report that the paid-up capital and reserve may be invested in securities of the Government of India having not more than five years to run. In view of the fact that the Government of India are now funding their short-term loans into long-term loans the limitation of maturity to five years might unduly restrict the power of the Bank to invest in such securities after a few years. It is, therefore, proposed to modify the provision so as to permit of investment in Government of India securities of any maturity.

Clause 15.—This gives effect to the recommendation in paragraph 102 of the report regarding operations in the open market.

Clauses 17 and 18.—These give effect to the recommendations in paragragh 140 of the report regarding the relations of the Bank with the Government.

Clause 19.—This gives effect to the recommendation in paragraph 141 of the report.

The Commission recommend that the right of note issue should be transferred to the Bank as soon as the Bank was in a position to issue its own notes. It is not desirable to postpone the early functioning of the Bank till it is able to arrange for the manufacture and issue of its own notes, and it is, therefore, proposed to allow the Bank to issue notes of the Government of India for a year from the date on which the Bank takes over the control of the currency.

Clause 20.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 143 of the report regarding the separation of the Banking and Issue Departments of the Bank.

Clause 21.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 142 of the report ; freedom is retained to postpone the issue of one rupee notes for a time if such postponement appears desirable with reference to the size of the holding of silver rupees in the Reserve.

Clause 22.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 155 of the report regarding the form and material of Bank notes.

Clause 23.—This is based upon recommendation in paragraph 149 of the report that the notes of the Bank shall be legal tender for the payment of any amount and shall be guaranteed by the Government of India.

The Commission recommend in paragraph 141 of the report that not later than five years from the date of the Bank charter becoming operative the Government of India notes still outstanding should cease to be legal tender except at Government treasuries. By the end of five years very few Government of India notes will remain outstanding, and it is undesirable to take away the legal tender character of the note in the absence of any very definite advantage to be gained by so doing. It is, however, proposed to take power for the Governor General in Council and the Bank to call in notes of particular series, if necessity arises.

Clause 24.—This is based on paragraph 155 of the Commission's report regarding the re-issue of Bank notes.

Clause 25.—This is based upon a similar provision in the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1923, and is necessary to protect the Bank against civil action in respect of notes lost, stolen, mutilated or imperfect.

Clauses 26 and 27.—These are based upon a similar provision in the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1923.

Clause 28.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 145 of the Commission's report regarding the constitution of the Reserve.

Clause 29.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 146 of the Commission's report defining the liabilities of the Issue Department.

The provision in sub-clause (2) of this clause is similar to that in the proviso to sub-section (6) of section 18 of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1923, although it differs in detail. Under the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1923, notes of denominational value exceeding rupees one hundred cannot be deemed to be not in circulation until 100 years after the date of issue, whereas notes of lower denominations are so deemed after 40 years. This distinction between the higher and the lower denominations of notes is undesirable. In practice, notes of higher denomination are much less likely to be outstanding for a very long period than notes of lower denomination, and the practice at the Bank of England is to treat all notes as not in circulation after 40 years. It is considered that the Reserve Bank might with advantage follow the practice of the Bank of England.

Clause 30.—This is based upon paragraph 144 of the report. The Commission recommend that coin and bullion and securities to be transferred to the Issue Department should be specified in a Schedule. The amount of notes in circulation at the time of inauguration of the Bank will not be known when the Bill is introduced and passed and also between the dates of introduction of the Bill and its passing into law and the inauguration of the Bank, there will be changes in the constitution of the reserve held against note issue. It is, therefore, proposed to provide for the transfer to the Bank of assets of such a nature as to enable the Bank to constitute the Reserve in accordance with the requirements laid down in the Act. In order to give the new Bank the necessary margin over minimum requirements, it is proposed to include in the assets transferred, gold and gold securities equal to one-half of the liabilities of the Issue Department as suggested in clause 3 (a) of Schedule III to the report.

Clause 31.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 147 of the report regarding the disposal of surplus rupee by the Bank.

Clause 32.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 147 of the report. As it would be uneconomical to coin new rupees until the stock of silver rupees in the Reserve is reduced to the minimum of 25 crores or one-tenth of the total amount of the Reserve, whichever is greater, it is proposed to limit the right of the Bank to demand delivery of rupee coin from Government.

Clause 33.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 148 of the report regarding the mutual obligations of the Government and the Bank in regard to rupee coin.

Clause 34.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 152 of the report.

Clause 35.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 150 of the report regarding the sale of gold by the Bank.

The provision in sub-clause (1) regarding the latest date on which the obligation to sell gold should come into force is based upon the recommendation of the Commission in paragraph 165 of the report.

Clause 36.—This gives effect to the recommendation in paragraph 166 of the report. The Commission recommend that during the transition period the Reserve Bank shall be under an obligation to sell gold or gold exchange at its option. As the Bank will be engaged in building up its gold holding in order to be in a position to undertake the definite obligation to sell gold later, it is proposed to omit the option to sell gold during the interim period.

Clause 37.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraphs 151 and 166 of the Commission's report.

Clause 38.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 153 of the report regarding the suspension of Reserve requirements.

Clause 39.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 154 of the report regarding the exemption of the Bank from the payment of any tax or duty upon its note issue.

Clause 40.—The provisions in this clause are in accordance with the recommendations in paragraph 149 of the report. The Commission recommend that the Governor General in Council should have the right to take over the assets of the Issue Department so far as they are required to meet the liability of the note or of rupee redemption. It is proposed to give the Governor General in Council the right to take over the assets not only of the Issue Department but of the Banking Department as well, as in theory such a necessity might arise if the Bank failed to keep sufficient assets in the Issue Department. A provision is also made for the carrying on of the note issue in such circumstances by some other agency determined by the Governor General in Council.

Clause 41.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 161 of the Commission's report with slight modifications. The percentages for minimum reserve balances recommended by the Commission appear somewhat high for India. It is, therefore, proposed to reduce these percentages to 7½ and 2½ per cent. of the demand and time liabilities, respectively.

The definition of "bank or banker" suggested in paragraph 162 of the Commission's report is imperfect, but it is difficult to arrive at any satisfactory definition. It is, therefore, proposed to exhibit in a Scheduled attached to the Bill the banks to which the provisions in this clause should apply in the first instance and to give the Governor General in Council power to make alterations in the Schedule later.

As the monthly return will show only the position at the close of the month to which it relates, it is necessary to provide for the receipt of the information mentioned in sub-clause (3) of this clause.

It is also necessary that provision should be made to enable the Government to take action not only on the monthly return submitted by the Bank, but also on any report received from the Board of the Reserve Bank.

Clause 42.—This follows the intention of paragraph 87 of the report.

Clause 43.—This is based upon the recommendations in paragraph 100 of the Commission's report. It is considered unnecessary to build up the Reserve Fund as quickly as the Commission suggest, and a lower rate of accumulation has, therefore, been proposed.

Clause 44.—This gives effect to the recommendations in paragraph 158 of the Commission's report.

Clauses 45 to 47.—These give effect to the recommendations in paragraph 156 of the report.

Clause 48.—This gives effect to the recommendation in paragraph 157 of the report.

Clause 49.—It is necessary to make provision for the contingency of the liquidation of the Bank and the distribution of the Reserve Fund and surplus assets, if any, of the Bank.

Clause 50.—This is based upon the recommendations in paragraph 164 of the report. The Commission proposed that the Governor General in Council should be given absolute power to make regulations. It is thought preferable that regulations should be made by the Board with the previous approval of the Governor General in Council.

Though Local Boards are not to be constituted on the creation of the Reserve Bank, it is proposed in sub-clause (2) (e) to give power to the Reserve Bank to establish such Local Boards if considered necessary later on and to delegate to them such powers and functions as may be desirable.

Clause 51.—The obligations proposed to be imposed on the Government by the Currency Bill to receive sovereigns and half-sovereigns from the public at their bullion value will be taken over by the Bank simultaneously with the transfer of the conduct of the note issue to it.

The Second Schedule.—The provisions contained in this Schedule have been accepted by the Central Board of the Imperial Bank of India and will be placed before the shareholders of the Imperial Bank. The proposed terms will involve no fresh charge on the taxpayer. They are designed to remunerate the Imperial Bank of India for the agency work done for the Reserve Bank and the loss in respect of non-paying branches and to encourage the further extension of banking in India.

CALCUTTA, THE 21ST JANUARY 1927.

RESOLUTION No. 323 Edn.

READ—

The Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for the year 1925-26.

The total number of educational institutions increased by 805 and the number of pupils by 71,070. In the 2¼ million scholars the proportion of girls to boys was approximately 1 to 5. Of the expenditure on education of 377 lakhs more than 143½ lakhs was contributed by Government, local bodies contributed about 19 lakhs, 155¼ lakhs accrued from fees, and 58¾ lakhs came from private sources. 2. Controlling Agency.—As the Director observes the year is noteworthy for the acceptance by the Secretary of State for India of the recommendation of the Lee Commission that posts now included in the All-India Services, operating in the transferred field of administration, should be provincialised. Accordingly, no fresh appointments will be made to the Indian Educational Service ; only the existing members of the service will continue. The Local Government has been empowered to create a new Provincial Service which will gradually replace the existing Imperial Service. Thus a great service, which has done so much for the educational progress of India, will before long cease to exist. The Governor in Council takes this opportunity of acknowledging the great ability and success with which the members of this service have controlled the educational activities of the Province.

3. University and Colleges.—It is a great satisfaction to Government that it was possible for them to obtain the assent of the Legislative Council to a recurring grant of Rs. 3 lakhs from provincial revenues to the Calcutta University for stabilising the finances of the Post-Graduate Department. The Council also passed in the same session the Dacca University (Amendment) Act, 1925, providing for a statutory recurring grant of Rs. 5½ lakhs to that University.

Arts Colleges in Bengal (both male and female) number 42, 10 being under Government management and the rest controlled by private bodies. Of the 23,437 students in these colleges, 284 were women. The total expenditure on Arts Colleges amounted to Rs. 34,02,604.

The great demand for more colleges is shown in the recent successful opening of three new colleges, viz., the Islamia College ; the Karatia College, Mymensingh ; and the Probhat Kumar College, Contai, Midnapore.

The Presidency College, Calcutta, was partly re-organised as a result of the recommendations of the Committee appointed to advise Government on the problems of the college. The highly unsatisfactory state of the physical condition of the students requires careful watching though the percentage of normal health in newly admitted students rose from 20 per cent. to 32·5 per cent. in the current year. It is hoped that the introduction of compulsory games and physical exercises for the 1st year and 3rd year classes of the college will effect the desired improvement in the health of the students.

4. Secondary Education.—A marked feature of the year under review is the increasing demand for secondary English schools. The popularity of schools in which the vernacular is the only medium of instruction has waned. Thus while there was an addition of 37 high and 50 middle English schools for boys with a corresponding increase in the number of pupils by 12,701 and 9,351, respectively, the middle vernacular schools fell by 6 with a corresponding decrease in pupil strength of 106. Twenty-two secondary schools conducted manual instruction classes.

The question of improving the condition of secondary schools in Bengal has long been engaging the attention of Government, and during the year a recurring grant of Rs. 3 lakhs was sanctioned from provincial revenues for distribution in the shape of new and increased grants-in-aid to secondary schools on condition that fee rates and salaries of teachers be increased, and provident funds, where possible, for the benefit of teachers be instituted. It is satisfactory to learn that this has had the effect of increasing the fee-receipts in aided schools by about Rs. 3½ lakhs with consequent benefit to teachers.

A noteworthy feature was that the Calcutta University submitted revised regulations for the Matriculation Examination proposing that teaching and examination in high schools should be conducted in vernacular in subjects other than English. The matter is now under consideration, and it is hoped that a final settlement on this point will be reached shortly. The total number of high schools in the province was 978 with scholars numbering 227,715.

5. Primary Education.—The Governor in Council regrets that during the year under review little practical progress has been made towards spreading primary education. The number of primary schools for boys increased by only 53, while enrolment increased by 21,731. The total number of pupils attending primary schools on the 31st March 1926, was 1,332,287. Of these 54,480 were girls. Besides these, 177,607 pupils attended the primary departments of secondary schools. The increase of Hindu pupils was 30,454, and of Muhammadans 8,866, but the Muhammadan scholars outnumbered the Hindus by 68,546. The work of local bodies in connection with panchayati union schools and "Biss" schools has not realised expectations, as over 2 lakhs of Government money distributed in previous years for the former have not yet been spent, while only in a few cases have municipalities and union boards been able to fulfil the conditions necessary to launch schemes for the establishment of schools of the latter type.

It is obvious that large additional resources are required for the further expansion of primary education and that additional funds cannot be available without fresh taxation. The chief needs at present are the provision of adequate pay for primary school teachers and of facilities for training them. The existing number of schools is quite inadequate and can never do more than touch the fringe of the problem. A Primary Education Bill, intended to promote the great expansion of primary education in rural areas, is now under the consideration of Government. It is too early to say what form the Bill will utimately take, but the principle underlying the Bill is that additional revenue should be raised by local taxation.

6. The training of teachers for Indian schools.—On the 31st March 1926, there were 99 institutions of all kinds for the training of teachers for Indian schools in the province with 2,161 students. The David Hare Training College, Calcutta, and the Dacca Training College continued to do useful work in the training of English teachers for secondary schools. But compared with the needs of secondary education in the province the supply of trained teachers is inadequate. During the year the David Hare Training College was moved to its newly built house at Ballygunge, and a Demonstration School for the college was opened in January 1927. The number of guru and muallim training schools decreased by 8 concurrently with the abolition of 8 old type guru-training schools. The total number of schools was 91, all except 5 managed by Government. Two guru-training schools of an improved type were opened at Suri and Midnapore.

It is gratifying to note that the training classes of the various missions are turning out a good class of female teachers. Fourteen students passed the B.T. Examination from the training class attached to the Diocesan College, Calcutta, and 6 passed the L. T. Examination from Loreto House training class. There is unquestionably a demand for properly qualified teachers, and the question of opening a Government training class in connection with the Bethune College, Calcutta, is now under consideration. The number of training schools and classes for women teachers employed in primary and lower classes of secondary schools was 10, of which 3 were directly managed by Government and 7 were under the control of Christian and Brahmo Missions. Eighty-three students passed from these schools during the year.

7. Professional and Technical Education.—There was a decrease in the number of students under instruction in all branches of professional and technical education except law. One hundred and ninety-two doctors passed from the Calcutta Medical College, the Carmichael Medical College, Belgachia, and the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. The number of medical schools in the Presidency was 8, with an enrolment of 1,804 pupils. The candidates who appeared at the Final Examination numbered 506, 321 being successful. A number of improvements was effected in the Bengal Engineering College, Sibpur. Sanction was accorded to the permanent duplication of the overseer classes in the Ahsanullah School of Engineering, Dacca. The additional teaching staff at the school appointed temporarily has also been made permanent. It is recognised that the present hostel arrangement for the students of the school is not satisfactory and the construction of a new building for this purpose is now under consideration. As reported by the Director, this establishment of a Commercial Art Section Class in the Government School of Art, Calcutta, has been sanctioned on an experimental basis for a period of two years.

8. Education of Indian Girls and Women.—Women's education in the province made good progress during the year, the number of institutions of all grades and types increasing by 428 and the number of girls under instruction by 14,226. The number of Muhammadan pupils increased by 5·5 per cent. ; that of the Hindu pupils by 3·5 per cent. The Muhammadan pupils outnumbered the Hindu by 51,000.

Girls' education in Bengal is still confined to the primary stage. Ninety-five per cent. of the girls under instruction read in primary schools, the rest attending secondary schools and colleges. Only 1,370 of the girls read in special, professional and technical schools. The present facilities for the higher education of girls are extremely limited as high schools and colleges for women exist only in a few big centres.

The Bethune College needs to be enlarged both in size and scope, and a scheme for its extension is now under consideration. There were altogether 18 high English schools for Indian girls with an enrolment of 4,504 pupils.

The scheme of Zenana instruction has not proved a success, and the Director has suggested its replacement by a new scheme of education deriving certain features from a scheme which has achieved success in England. The Governor in Council awaits with interest the result of Mr. West's experiment with the new scheme at Dacca. It is satisfactory to learn that the quality of needle-work in girls' school has greatly improved. The Director says "The Lady Carmichael needle-work diploma is a stimulus making for improvement".

9. Education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians.—There were 59 schools for general education and 4 for special instruction attended by 10,630 pupils, viz., 9,015 Europeans and Anglo-Indians and 1,615 non-Europeans. Out of 673 teachers 304 were untrained. At present the Presidency of Bengal has only one institution, viz., the Dow Hill Training College, for the training of female teachers and none for the training of male teachers. Twenty women teachers were under training at the Dow Hill Training College and two male teachers were deputed by Government to the Chelmsford Training Class, Ghora Gali, for training.

On 31st March 1926 the number of schools giving vocational training was 18 ; the number of students attending them being 279. Commercial, industrial or domestic and telegraphy courses were taught at these institutions.

It is noteworthy that out of the income of the Sussex Trust Fund Rs. 1 lakh was contributed towards the construction of a building for St. Vincent School, Rs. 70,000 towards the construction of dormitories for the Dow Hill School, Kurseong, and Rs. 19,638 for scholarships.

Certain improvements were effected in the staff of the La Martinière Schools with the help of the income derived from Sir Paul Chater's bequest.

In February 1926, a conference of the authorities of the European Secondary Schools in Bengal was held in which the relation between the European Schools and the Indian Universities was discussed. The conference was in favour of certain schools taking exclusively the Matriculation and Intermediate examinations of the Calcutta University.

10. Education of Muhammadans.—The number of Muhammadan pupils in institutions of all kinds rose to 1,052,366, or 47·6 per cent. of the total number of all creeds. The actual increase was 33,773, representing 1·5 per cent. of the whole. In the Arts Colleges, the percentage of Muhammadans was 13·7 per cent. and in the professional colleges it was 13·2 per cent. In the high and middle schools the Muhammadans represented 15·0 and 17·6 per cent, respectively, of the students. In the primary schools, however, the Muhammadans formed as much as 50·5 per cent. of the total number of students. There are only two Islamic Intermediate Colleges in Bengal—one at Dacca and the other at Serajganj. These two institutions had 84 students on their rolls on the 31st March 1926.

An interesting feature of the year was the great increase that occurred in the number as well as in the pupil strength of Madrasahs and Muktabs in the province. The number of Madrasahs increased by 55 and that of the Muktabs by about 1,000. The number of boys under instruction in the Madrasahs rose by 6,028 and that of the pupils reading in Muktabs by 37,223.

The buildings of the Islamia College, Calcutta, were completed and became ready for occupation before the end of the year. As already noticed, the college was opened from July 1926. It has been affiliated to I.A., I.Sc. and B.A. Standards (including Honours) of the Calcutta University.

11. Education of Special Classes.—It is satisfactory to find that the Sonthals, the Namasudras and the Pods made good progress in education during the year under review. Altogether 254,853 boys and 23,172 girls belonging to these communities were under instruction in the various grades of schools in the Presidency.

The Deaf and Dumb Schools in Calcutta and in other parts of the Presidency, the Blind School, Behala, and the Childrens' House at Kurseong, are doing useful work in educating the defectives.

The district of Jalpaiguri had 56 tea garden schools with 1,042 pupils and the district of Darjeeling, 52 such schools with 1,140 pupils during the year.

12. Physical and Moral Training.—The Governor in Council notices with particular satisfaction that the necessity of physical culture in schools and colleges and the value of discipline in training boys for the work of life are now universally recognised. Calcutta University has issued recently a circular which aims at introducing some form of drill, physical exercise or organised games as a part of the school curriculum for boys who are physically fit. Dacca University, too, has made physical exercise and games compulsory for all students who are not medically unfit. During the year under review, a training class for drill and gymnastic teachers was opened at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium in Mechua Bazar, Calcutta, under the supervision of the Adviser in Physical Education, Bengal.

ORDER.—Ordered that the resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette along with the Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for the year 1925-26 and that copies of the resolution be forwarded to the Government of India in the Department of Education, Health and Lands, to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, to all Commissioners of Divisions and to the Local Self-Government Department of this Government, for information.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. H LINDSAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

REPORT ON PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN BENGAL, 1925-26.

CHAPTER I.

Introductory.

1. Institutions and pupils.—This report gives a short account of the educational work undertaken in the Presidency of Bengal during the year ending 31st March 1926. The number of recognised and unrecognised institutions rose from 57,173 to 57,978, or by 805. Of these institutions 43,769 were for males and 14,209 for females, as compared with 43,415 and 13,758 respectively in the preceding year. The number of pupils reading in both recognised and unrecognised institutions rose during the year from 2,150,942 to 2,222,012, or by 71,070. Recognised institutions increased in number from 55,890 to 56,549 and unrecognised institutions from 1,283 to 1,429. The number of pupils attending recognised institutions rose from 2,107,127 to 2,172,177; pupils studying in unrecognised institutions increased from 43,815 to 49,835. Of the total number of pupils reading in all classes of institutions on 31st March 1926, 1,824,942 were males and 397,070 females, as compared with 1,770,472 boys and 380,470 girls on the corresponding date of the preceding year.

2. Different classes of recognised institutions.—Of the total number of recognised institutions returned on 31st March 1926, 62 (including the special university classes) were arts and professional colleges, 1,036 were high, 1,745 middle, 50,923 primary and 2,783 special schools. The corresponding figures for the previous year were 61,996, 1,691, 50,450 and 2,692 respectively. Of the recognised institutions 321 were managed by Government and 3,855 by District and Municipal Boards; of the rest 43,871 were aided and 8,502 unaided. The corresponding figures in 1924-25 were 334, 3,656, 43,307 and 8,593 respectively. The decrease in the number of institutions managed by Government during 1925-26 was due mainly to the abolition of certain old-type guru-training schools, together with the practising schools attached to them.

3. Expenditure on public instruction.—The total expenditure on public instruction amounted during the year under report to Rs. 3,76,94,290, as compared with Rs. 3,56,45,939 in the preceding year. Of the total expenditure Rs. 1,43,63,858 were met from provincial revenues, Rs. 15,37,270 and Rs. 3,93,506 were provided from District and Municipal Funds respectively, while Rs. 1,55,20,789 accrued from fees and Rs. 58,78,867 from private sources. The corresponding figures in 1924-25 were Rs. 1,33,82,962, Rs. 15,45,805, Rs. 3,05,988, Rs. 1,46,36,126 and Rs. 57,75,058 respectively.

4. Noteworthy features of the period under review.—In comparison with the extreme financial stringency of the past few years, the year under review could be regarded as one of relative opulence, and this was reflected in the improvements that were effected in a number of deserving non-Government secondary schools and colleges by the award of new and additional grants-in-aid. Dacca University had its grant enhanced by half a lakh, and the finances of the Post-Graduate Department of Calcutta University were placed on a stabler basis by a liberal grant from provincial revenues. But more funds were needed. Very little could be done towards the improvement of primary education, and no progress was made in the direction of university reform or the improvement of secondary educational administration. The following were some of the noteworthy educational features of the year:—

(i) There being no Education Minister, the department was in charge of a member of His Excellency the Governor's Executive Council throughout the period.

(ii) Conferences of Government officials and representative local non-officials were held in five centres to discuss the question of the imposition of a cess for making primary education free and compulsory in the rural areas of the province. The proposed taxation was criticised, but not universally; there was general acceptance of the necessity for making a move of some comprehensive character.

(iii) The revised curriculum for maktabs was introduced in all the districts of the Presidency during the year under review.

(iv) An additional allotment of Rs. 3 lakhs was made available from provincial revenues for increased and new grants-in-aid to secondary schools in the province for the improvement of the pay and prospects of teachers. The allotment was distributed to high and middle English schools, subject to the fulfilment of the conditions referred to in chapter IV of this report.

(v) A sum of Rs. 20,000 was also distributed from provincial revenues in the shape of new and additional grants-in-aid for the improvement of non-Government arts colleges, subject to the condition that increased contributions from private sources, e.g., fees, where possible were obtained.

(vi) The training of teachers in vernacular training schools received an impetus by the restoration at a slightly increased rate of the stipends which were not awarded for some years past owing to financial stringency.

(vii) There was a general increase in the rates of fees paid in non-Government aided secondary schools, many of which were thereby placed on a better financial footing, and with the help of an additional Government grant were able to improve the pay and prospects of the teachers to some extent.

(viii) Dacca University received a statutory recurring grant of Rs. 5½ lakhs, its finances being thereby stabilised.

(ix) There was a growing recognition of the importance of physical training in schools and colleges, which had various results, including a steady developement of the Boy Scout movement.

CHAPTER II.

Controlling Agencies.

1. The agencies controlling the educational activities of the Presidency of Bengal are the departmental staff and local and missionary bodies.

2. Indian Educational Service.—(i) Men's Branch.—On the 31st March 1925 the men's cadre of the Indian Educational Service consisted of 68 appointments of which 3 posts were in the higher selection grade, 10 in the lower selection grade, 1 on a special rate of pay and the remaining 54 in the ordinary time scale of the service. During the year 1925-26, Messrs. W. C. Wordsworth and E. H. Roberton retired on proportionate pension, and Mr. J. C. Coyajee, Professor of Political Economy, Presidency College, was appointed to act as a member of the Royal Currency Commission.

(ii) Women's Branch.—On the 31st March 1926 the cadre of the Women's Branch of the Indian Educational Service consisted of 4 posts as in the previous year—1 in the selection grade and the remaining 3 in the ordinary grade of the service.

A noteworthy event in the history of the year's work was the acceptance by the Secretary of State for India of the recommendation of the Lee Commission that posts now included in all-India services operating in the transferred field of administration should be provincialised. As a result of this decision there will be no fresh appointments to the Indian Educational Service, and the Local Government has been vested with power to create appointments either on special rates of pay or in the Bengal Educational Service for the performance of the duties of corresponding posts in the Indian Educational Service when members in that service are not available. The existing members of the Indian Educational Service will retain their status and position as members of an all-India service in regard to their pay, allowances, leave and pension. The future of the Indian Educational Service is thus decided; it is now only a matter of time when it will cease to be, and the important problem of the creation of a Provincial Service which shall gradually replace the existing Imperial Service is under consideration.

3. Bengal Educational Service.—(i) Men's Branch.—On the 31st March 1925 the number of appointments in the Men's Branch was 208, including 4 temporary posts—3 in the Islamic Intermediate College, Dacca, and 1 in Rajshahi College; during the year under review the 4 temporary posts were made permanent. One post at Krishnagar College was replaced by a post in the Subordinate Educational Service. Thus at the end of the year 1925-26 the Men's Branch of the Bengal Educational Service consisted of 207 (permanent) appointments.

(ii) Women's Branch.—On the 31st March 1926 the number of appointments in the Women's Branch was 20, the same as in the previous year.

4. Subordinate Educational Service.—On the 31st March 1925 the strength of the service consisted of 1,663 (viz., 1,335 teaching and 328 inspecting) appointments, including 4 posts of Subdivisional Inspectors of Schools created in Government order No. 1598-Edn., dated the 4th August 1922, but kept in abeyance for want of funds. During the year under review 6 teaching posts were added to the cadre; on the other hand, 3 posts—2 teaching and 1 inspecting—were abolished. The service, therefore, consisted of 1,666 appointments on 31st March 1926, viz., teaching 1,339 and inspecting 327 appointments.

5. Posts outside the classified lists.—The number of posts outside the classified lists on 31st March 1925 was 499. Sixteen posts were subsequently added, and 2 were abolished. The total strength on 31st March 1926, therefore, stood at 513 as detailed below:—

Bottomley was succeeded by Mr. W. B. Finnigan, who was appointed to act as Assistant Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, from 4th August 1925.

7. Inspecting agency.—The inspecting agency consisted of 386 appointments on 31st March 1925. During the year under report one post of Assistant Sub-Inspector of Schools was abolished. The table below indicates the strength as it stood on 31st March 1926:—

8. Extra-departmental agencies.—District and Sub-divisional Officers, many of whom either are or have been Presidents of the Managing Committees of Secondary Schools, co-operated cordially with the department in fostering education in the Presidency. The acknowledgments of the department are also due to Chairmen of District and Local Boards and Municipalities for the interest which they evinced in varying degrees in the improvement of primary and technical education in their respective areas. The work of the various missionary bodies—both Indian and non-Indian—also deserves special mention for their whole-hearted zeal for the spread of education among women and among backward communities.

CHAPTER III.

University and college education.

1. Universities.—The Universities of Calcutta and Dacca continued their work during the year, each on its respective lines. Sir Ewart Greaves was Vice-Chancellor of the University of Calcutta throughout the period under review. The finances of the Post-Graduate Department of the University were placed on a stabler basis by a recurring grant of Rs. 3 lakhs sanctioned by the Legislative Council in the August session, and as a consequence appointments in the department were placed on a more permanent footing. The question of the reconstitution of the University on the basis of the recommendations of the Sadler Commission continued, however, to remain an unsolved problem, nor could any final decision be reached during the year on the constitution and functions of the proposed Board of Secondary Education. The numbers on the rolls of the arts and science classes of the Post-Graduate Departments of the University of Calcutta were 604 and 234 students respectively on the 31st March 1926, as compared with 994 and 205 students reading in these classes on the corresponding date of the previous year; there were also 159 students in the University commerce classes.

A striking event of the year was the passing of the Dacca University (Amendment) Act by the Legislative Council in August 1925, a statutory annual grant of Rs. 5½ lakhs to the University, no longer liable to the uncertainty of an annual snap vote, being made. This act of the Legislature without in any way removing the University from its ultimate control, places its finances on a footing which enables it to foresee its financial position with some degree of assuredness, and frees it from the utter uncertainty which the possibility of sudden unforeseen reductions entailed upon it. Sir P. J. Hartog, Vice-Chancellor, who had directed the affairs of the University since its foundation and to whom much of the credit for its successful administration was due, retired on 31st December 1925 and was succeeded by Mr. G. H. Langley, M.A., late Professor of Philosophy in the University and Provost of Dacca Hall. On the 31st March 1926 there were 746 students (including 11 research scholars) in the arts and science classes of the University of Dacca as compared with 752 students on the corresponding date of 1925. In addition, there were 57 students under instruction in the commerce classes of the University.

2. Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca.—The Board has been in existence for five years. The University of Dacca complains of the low equipment of the students whom it is necessary to admit to the University courses. The Dacca Board has found it difficult to raise standards; students have been scared away to institutions outside the Board area by such attempts as have actually been made; and though schools under the Board have increased in number, high school examinees have decreased in the quinquennium. The field of operation of the Board must be extended; otherwise, there can be little justification other than that of the existing legal necessity for its continued existence, with so little possibility of effecting any real reform. As in the previous year the Dacca and Jagannath Colleges for men and the Intermediate Department of the Eden High School for Girls, Dacca, were controlled by the Board. Another intermediate college—the Imperial Salimullah College, Dacca—was started, but did not secure recognition during the year reviewed. Its existence as an intermediate college is somewhat precarious. Jagannath College continued to impart instruction in two vocational subjects, viz., dyeing and commerce, besides teaching the usual arts and science courses of the Dacca Board.

3. Arts colleges.—On the 31st March 1926 there were in Bengal 38 arts colleges for men and 4 (including the Intermediate Department of the Eden High School for Girls, Dacca) for women with 23,437 students on the rolls; the corresponding figures for the previous year were 37, 4, and 22,169 respectively. The starting of the Imperial Salimullah College, Dacca, accounts for the increased number in 1925-26.

The cost of maintaining arts colleges rose from Rs. 31,47,049 to Rs. 34,02,604 in 1925-26. The average annual cost of maintaining an arts college amounted during the year under review to Rs. 89,542. The average cost of educating a student in an arts college was Rs. 145-2-4 per annum, of which Rs. 57-12-5 was borne by provincial revenues.

Arts colleges for men.

4. Number of colleges.—On the 31st March 1926 there were in Bengal 38 arts colleges for men as compared with 37 on the corresponding date of the previous year; the increase was due to the opening of the Imperial Salimullah College, Dacca. Eight colleges were under Government management, and 30 were controlled by private bodies.

5. Number of students.—The number of students reading in arts colleges for men increased from 21,919 to 23,153, of whom 19,743 were Hindus, 3,178 were Muhammadans and 232 were of other communites. The corresponding figures for the previous year were 18,697, 2,853 and 369 respectively.

6. Expenditure.—The total expenditure for the upkeep of arts colleges for men rose from Rs. 30,21,296 to Rs. 32,57,591, of which Rs. 12,38,456 were met from provincial revenues, Rs. 8,000 from municipal funds, Rs. 17,97,078 from fees and Rs. 2,14,057 from other sources.

7. Grants to private colleges.—A sum of Rs. 1,29,000 was distributed by Government, in accordance with the recommendations of Calcutta University, among private colleges for the improvement of libraries and laboratories. Besides this amount a sum of Rs. 2,04,234 was expended by Government directly in giving capital and maintenance grants to non-Government arts colleges during the year under review.

8. Government colleges.—Presidency College.—On the 31st March 1926 the Presidency College had on its rolls 1,052 students (including 214 post-graduate students), as compared with 958 students on the corresponding date of the previous year. Of these students, 873 were Hindus, 171 were Muhammadans; the rest belonged to other communities. The total cost of maintaining the college amounted during the year to Rs. 5,33,675, of which Rs. 3,85,354 came from provincial revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student worked out at Rs. 507, of which Rs. 366 was borne by provincial revenues.

The Committee which was appointed to advise Government with reference to various problems of the college submitted a final report which dealt among other things with the following main points:—
